STATUS OF CHINA STANDS! BRITISH WARN JAPANESE

London Sends Stern Note to Tokio.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 16.—[Monday.]—Great Britain bluntly told Japan in a stiff note released for publication this morning that she is not prepared to accept or recognize Japan's proclaimed guardianship over China. The London government rejected any change in the status of China brought about by force. Japanese officials as well as the press made no comment, but it was evident Tokio is highly displeased. Unofficial quarters said the communication plainly indicates joint action by the United States and Britain.

Sir Robert L. Craigie.

The British note was handed to Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita Saturday by Sir Robert L. Craigie, British ambassador to Tokio.

British Use Forceful Language.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The British government today published its note to the Japanese government rejecting Tokio's "new order" program in China. In the most forceful language Great Britain has used since the undeclared Chinese-Japanese war started, the communication declared:

"His majesty's government is at a loss to understand how [former Japanese premier] Prince Konoe's assurance that Japan seeks no territory and respects the sovereignty of China can be reconciled with the declared intention of the Japanese government to compel the Chinese people by force of arms to accept conditions involving surrender of their political, economic, and cultural life to Japanese control, indefinite maintenance in China of considerable Japanese garrisons, and virtual detachment from China of territory of Inner Mongolia.

"For their part, his majesty's government desires to make it clear that they are not prepared to accept or to recognize changes of the nature indicated which are brought about by force.

"They intend to adhere to the principles of the nine power treaty and cannot agree to unilateral modification of its terms."

Voices "Grave Anxiety."

Britain voiced "grave anxiety" over Japan's new policy. The note declared "his majesty's government infers that it is the intention of the Japanese government to establish a tripartite combination or bloc composed of Japan, China, and Manchuria [Manchukuo] in which supreme authority will be vested in Japan and subordinate rôles will be allotted to China and Manchuria."

While the note asserted no unilateral revision of the nine power treaty could be countenanced, it was added that the British government "does not contend that treaties are eternal."

"If, therefore, the Japanese government have any constructive suggestions to make regarding modification of any of the multilateral agreements relating to China, his majesty's government for their part will be ready to consider them," the note continued.

Britain at the same time invited Japan to give a "more precise and detailed exposition of Japanese conditions for terminating hostilities and of Japanese policy toward China."

History of Dispute.

In the nine power pact of 1922, China, Japan, the United States, Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Portugal, and the Netherlands pledged respect for China's territorial integrity and maintenance of the open door for trade.

The United States government in a note to Tokio last Oct. 6 charged "unwarranted interference" with American rights in China.

The Japanese government on Nov. 18 denied every charge in the American note. It said that "ideas and principles of the past" no longer applied in China's "new situation" resulting from Japan's aim of an "Asia for Asiatics."

The United States government on Dec. 31 bluntly rejected Japan's "new order" program in a reply to Tokio's Nov. 18 note.

REBELS PUSH ON AS ENEMY GIVES UP TARRAGONA

HENDAYE, France, Jan. 15 [at the Spanish Frontier].—(AP)—Spanish rebels today captured historic Tarragona, second most important city of Catalonia, in their swift drive toward Barcelona, the government capital.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's high command said Navarrese troops, veterans of almost every major action in the two and one-half year old civil war, entered the seaport shortly after noon. They were commanded by Gen. Juan Bautista Sanchez. The advance gave Franco's forces virtually complete occupation of Tarragona and Lerida provinces, two of the richest in Spain.

Tarragona, from which vital communications roads radiate inland from the coastal highway, is about 63 miles by road southwest of Barcelona. The city in 218 B. C. was the headquarters of a great Roman army.

Reus Also Is Captured.

Rebels said that Reus, government munitions center about nine miles from Tarragona on a direct highway, also had fallen to Franco's converging forces on the south of the 100 mile Catalonian front.

A third rebel corps was reported to have driven south from Valls, reaching the Mediterranean near the mouth of the Gaya river, about six miles beyond Tarragona on the highway to Barcelona.

All along the Catalonian front in northeastern Spain government forces were giving ground. In central and southwestern Spain, where the government had attempted to draw some of Franco's Catalonian manpower with counteroffensives, the fronts were stalemated.

Loyalists in Grave Peril.

Thus, on the third anniversary of the formation of the Spanish Popular Front, the government found itself in the gravest position in its history.

A ministerial decree yesterday, making possible the mobilization of virtually every able bodied Spaniard in government territory—man or woman—indicated the government's own appraisal of the dangers it faces.

A second rebel army is within forty miles of Barcelona, rapidly advancing eastward toward a junction with the southern forces in the Tarragona sector.

Rebel troops in the west had smashed their way into Barcelona province, taking the village of Bellprat, about thirty-seven miles from the government capital. This action turned the last of the government's three lines of fortifications defending Barcelona.

Make Speedy Withdrawal.

Military observers were amazed at the speed of the government withdrawal throughout lower Catalonia virtually without firing a shot except for rearguard actions to cover the retreat. They suggested, however, that the government might be retiring to a surprise defense line just inside the border of Barcelona province.

These sources said the orderly withdrawal of the government forces indicated that it might be part of a long laid plan to make the most determined stand along the natural line of mountain defenses near the provincial border.

Government reports have hinted of a plan to retire to the north if rebel pressure became too heavy, always leaving open a line of communication with France in hopes that the French frontier might be reopened to arms and foreign fighters.

Order Town Evacuated.

The population of Seo de Urgel, just south of the French frontier, was ordered by Barcelona to leave the town within twenty-four hours. The government was reported planning its last big defense of Seo de Urgel, key to the Puigcerda valley and the railroad line which links Barcelona with France.

The most serious danger to the government in Catalonia was the sudden refugee problem caused by the rapid rebel gains. About 70,000 women, children, and aged men fled from Tarragona.

MORE THAN HE CAN SWALLOW?

Horner Must Remain Until April in South

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Gov. Henry Horner will not return to Springfield before April, his personal physician, Dr. Nathan Rosen, today said upon his return from Miami Beach, Fla., where the governor is recuperating from an extended illness.

The physician said it would take "at least six months" for Gov. Horner to recover completely.

"The governor is a very tired man," Dr. Rosen said, "but is not beset with as many maladies as has been rumored since he has been in Florida."

Explains His Ailment.

The physician said the governor was suffering from a hypertensive heart and high blood pressure, but he has not suffered a stroke and does not have a blood clot.

"I found Gov. Horner about as mentally alert as he always has been," Dr. Rosen said.

"He is constantly worrying about affairs in Illinois. The chief concern about his physical condition is that he is weak. His weight has dropped from 203 to 173, but during the three days I was there he gained a pound each day.

Reading Is Forbidden.

"He walks with a cane. Twice a day he sits on the sun porch and walks from the bed to the porch. He delights in twirling his cane so his visitors may see how well he is doing. He is not permitted to read. He must have no exertion or excitement. He likes company and would talk to all his callers if we would let him. He is cheery and not discouraged by his illness."

Dr. Rosen has been the governor's personal physician for more than six years.

Within the last week there have been unpublished rumors that Gov. Horner's condition is critical. These reports, which caused a flood of inquiries to newspaper offices, have been denied by Gov. Horner's physicians in Florida.

Girl at Show Wins $187.50, but Refuses to Accept It

Oneonta, N. Y., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The audience gasped and the bewildered theater manager, Harry Rose, was speechless when Miss Blanche Beebe refused to accept $187.50 she won in a wheel lottery conducted at a local theater. "I don't want the money," she told the astonished Rose. "I came here just to see the show." The money went to another woman after a second drawing.

MILLION DOLLAR LOSS TO AIR CORPS IN FIRE AT CHANUTE FIELD

Rantoul, Ill., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Fire which started in a warehouse at Chanute field, home of the U. S. Army Air Corps technical school, tonight destroyed more than a million dollars' worth of equipment and three buildings. Flames and water also caused heavy damage to the post headquarters building.

The buildings were of wood put up in 1917 as temporary structures, and have been in use since. The warehouse and office, guardhouse and firehouse were destroyed.

The equipment lost consisted mainly of airplane parts and officers' flying equipment. The cause of the fire was not determined. A board of three officers will investigate.

EAGLE ATTACKS PLANE SPEEDING 275 MILES HOUR

Denver, Colo., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The mighty eagle no longer rules the air above the Colorado rockies. One monarch of the crags went out to battle with three fearsome-looking invaders yesterday and crashed to death against the wing of an army attack plane 50 miles northeast of Pueblo.

The three planes were doing 275 miles an hour when the eagle tackled one piloted by Lieut. C. E. Putnam.

"He dove straight at me, like an attacking plane," Lieut. Putnam said. "The impact tore a hole the size of a man's hat in the plane's wing."

U. of I. Students Vote for a Course on Marriage

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—A marriage relations course is favored by University of Illinois students, according to a survey conducted by the student senate. Out of 900 questionnaires sent to all junior and senior men and women students, who were known to have attended a series of lectures on home life problems last fall, 644 were in favor of establishing such a course. Only four were opposed.

Chicagoan Grows Orange, 4 Lemons in Barber Shop

Joseph Pirrello yesterday proudly displayed his fruit crop from a lemon and an orange tree he nurtured in his barber shop at 3608 Montrose avenue. There were four lemons and one orange. He planted the California fruit trees several years ago to see if they could be grown indoors in Chicago.

Mary's Little Lamb Outdone by Billy's Pal

One of young Billy Schweinsberg's pals dropped by to see him yesterday. They played in the snow, then went indoors for Sunday dinner. The guest sang while Billy, who is 7 years old, accompanied him on the piano. Then he peeked over the boy's shoulder to see how he was coming with his home work.

When it was time to go, the visitor didn't put on his hat and coat and say farewell at the door. He just flew out the window.

Teases Birds in Cages.

The visitor was Blackie, a confident crow that is the pet of the neighborhood around the Schweinsberg home at 817 Waveland avenue. Blackie also is well known in Lincoln park, where he loafs near the bird sanctuary and teases the inmates.

In the park Billy made friends with the bird with no more introduction than a sack of peanuts. Blackie sometimes followed him home. Shortly after Christmas, however, Billy became sick and had to be kept in bed. The crow was seen often in the neighborhood. But amateur ornithologists said he looked worried.

Last Monday Billy was well again and left home for the LeMoyne school. Blackie was waiting outside. He hopped on the boy's shoulder and accompanied him to school. Mary's Little Lamb had to walk, but Blackie got a ride.

Behaves Well in School.

After school Blackie was waiting for Billy once more. He didn't miss once last week. He was taken into the schoolroom for a visit or two and was as well behaved as any of the pupils.

Blackie didn't say much at the Schweinsberg's yesterday. He cawed gratefully for his steak dinner, and made a noble but nerveracking attempt to sing. Billy, however, was able to translate Blackie's farewell squawk.

"That means," he said, "'So long, kid. I'll be seeing you in the morning.'"

Cost of King's Atlantic Trip Worries British

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 15.—With the pound sterling slumping and rearmament costs mounting, the British today began to take an interest in the expense account which King George VI. will turn in for his trip to Canada and the United States next May.

While no estimate has yet been made, it is known that the trip with its ceremonials, formality and royal display will cost a pretty penny.

Expenses will be shared partially by the Canadian government. The British, in fact, maintain that while on the other side of the Atlantic King George will be more king of Canada than king of the United Kingdom. In the scheme of things he is a sort of multiheaded monarch, being more of a ruler over each dominion than over the entire kingdom.

King Reduces His Staf.

Discussions are going on among the king, the British government and the Canadian government about keeping down the expenses for the royal tour.

The king himself, it is said, has insisted that all unnecessary expense should be avoided. He has reduced to a minimum the staf that will accompany him across the ocean. Nevertheless, with requirements for pomp and prestige, it will be a good sized retinue because it will include secretaries, servants, and ladies in waiting for Queen Elizabeth.

One item of expense already is listed in the form of alterations in the battle cruiser Repulse, which will carry the king and queen to Canada. The commander and several other high officers of the Repulse have given up their quarters to the royal entourage. In addition that section of the ship is being overhauled, redecorated, and converted into special accommodations for the sovereigns.

Call Eden's Trip Valuable.

But, whatever the cost, the British believe the trip will be worth it in propaganda returns—that is, in drawing American and Canadian sympathies closer to England.

It is believed that the week Capt. Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary, spent in the United States accomplished good in making American opinion more tolerant of the government of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

Meanwhile, the British government and royal family are reported to be looking around again in an effort to find a job for the duke of Windsor. The abdicated monarch is restless and occupies his time between Paris and the Riviera.

The duke's possible return to this country is being discussed in social circles and nearly every one admits that he would be a big drawing card at banquets and ceremonies if he were allowed to return. But the fly in the ointment still appears to be the social status of the duchess of Windsor, the former Mrs. Wallis Simpson.

Certain women of high position dislike the idea of the duchess taking her place in London as a royal personage.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The lines of battle between the President and the conservative Democratic-Republican coalition in congress over the Roosevelt policy of indefinite pump priming deficits were drawn tonight.

Senator H. F. Byrd.

In reply to Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board, Senator Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.], leader of the forces demanding retrenchment and budget balancing, attacked as fallacious the Eccles spending theory, embraced by the President and in "direct repudiation" of past pledges by him. According to this theory, continued pump priming expenditures in excess of revenue will raise the national income from the present 60 billion dollars a year to 80 billions, whereupon the increased tax revenue will balance expenditures.

Program for Retrenchment.

Senator Byrd proposed the following program of retrenchment and budget balancing in opposition to the Roosevelt program of pump priming deficit financing:

1. Reorganize the federal government for simplification, retrenchment and economy.

2. Cancel existing authority of thirty federal borrowing corporations and agencies to borrow an additional eight billion dollars without further legislation and require these corporations and agencies to function through the budget, allowing congress to approve or reject their future expenditures.

3. Scrutinize the new activities of government now responsible for the expenditure of 30 per cent of the total appropriation, exclusive of relief; eliminate the dispensable activities and reduce others to a minimum cost.

4. Have a thoroughly honest purge of relief rolls to stop all expenditures in excess of provision for those in need, through requirement of the localities to bear a portion of the burden and direct local interest to needed reforms.

5. Conduct the government within the ability of the people to pay and regard reasonable taxation as one of the best assurances for business prosperity.

Recalls President's Warnings.

Quoting the President's and Mr. Eccles' own warnings that continued deficits entail impairment of government credit and disastrous inflation Senator Byrd, echoing the aphorism that a nation cannot spend itself prosperous any more than a person can drink himself sober, propounded this question:

"Can society lift itself by its own bootstraps through continuous spending in excess of income?"

Under the system of deficit financing, that has obtained for nine years already, the check on excessive spending by tax conscious citizens, the senator pointed out, has been wanting.

"If deficit financing is practiced indefinitly," he added, "the taxpayer is not directly conscious of the burdens to be imposed later upon him."

President Adopts Theory.

The Byrd letter was a rejoinder to Mr. Eccles' reply last month to Senator Byrd's indictment of Roosevelt fiscal policies. In that reply Mr. Eccles developed his theory of spending to increase the national income the increased revenue from taxes on which would automatically balance the budget. Mr. Roosevelt adopted this theory as his own in his annual message to congress.

Senator Byrd in his rejoinder pointed out that it is the magnitude of the deficit that Mr. Eccles relies on to effect the ultimate balancing of the budget.

"What you want is a deficit, financed by expanding bank credit," said the senator and added:

"I call to your attention two ways of getting such a deficit. One is the method, apparently contemplated by you and those in the government who think as you do, of the maintenance and even the expansion of the existing fantastically high government expenditures. But another way, equally effective, would be a curtailment of government expenditures, accompanied by an equal curtailment of taxes. A complete tax holiday would create even a greater deficit."

Senator Byrd said that he would restore business prosperity, "not by financial manipulations on the part of the government but by restoring confidence on the part of the business community in the fairness of the government, by eliminating needless frictions and restraints and by freeing the enterprise of a great people, who want jobs, not charity; work, not taxes."

"We had pretty good business in the United States, with occasional interruptions for 150 years before the era of deficits began in 1931," said the Virginia senator. "Nine years of deficits, very largely financed by bank credit, should shake even your confidence in the value of deficits as financial magic in making business prosperity.

"I emphatically repudiate your doctrin that debt for its own sake is good, that deficits for their own sake are good, and that an expansion of bank credit for the purpose of financing deficits is good.

Up to Producers.

"I believe that the general flow of purchasing power must come out of production itself, production in one industry giving rise to the demand for goods produced by other industries; that, with the proper proportion among the different kinds of industrial activity, the producers themselves will clear the markets of the goods that other producers create, and that all the financial manipulations of government deficit spending designed to create additional purchasing power merely mess up and distort the picture.

"You profess to favor the capitalistic system, but you seem to forget that the profit motive is to capitalism what the law of gravitation is to the physical universe. Private enterprise is more concerned about the 'hope' of profits than the profits of the hour. This must be so, because a factory is not built for this year but for many years. It is the confidence in this 'hope' of profits that is impaired by the expectation of the evils of the inevitable day of settlement."

Sees Menace to Solvency.

Senator Byrd concluded from the statement of the Roosevelt-Eccles doctrin that until the budget balances automatically, the spending and borrowing and increasing of the public debt are to "continue so long as the solvency of the government lasts."

"You think," said Senator Byrd, "the government can 'purchase' prosperity on borrowed money. I think that genuine prosperity must come from the productive industry of the citizens of our republic."

To counterbalance President Roosevelt, Senator Byrd quoted Presidents Jefferson and Jackson that public debt is not a public blessing. Quoting Mr. Eccles' 1936 warning that the budget should be balanced by 1938 to avoid dangerous monetary inflation, Senator Byrd asked:

"Is not your present policy to continue deficits for an indefinite period or until an 80 billion dollar income is reached a perilous one? May it not end in the evils of a currency inflation which may have dire consequences? Can you guarantee or even prophesy the year in which we shall have an income of 80 billion dollars? To me it is a peculiar method you advocate to maintain the government's solvency and to avoid inflation."

For every dollar the government spends in pump priming, said the senator, "private enterprise is deterred from spending two."

Engaged

MARTHA PHYLLIS WHITNEY.

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The engagement of Miss Martha Phyllis Whitney, daughter of Mr and Mrs. George Whitney of New York City and Westbury, Long Island, to William S. Rowe II. of Cincinnati, O., was announced today. Miss Whitney, a member of the Junior league, who made her debut in 1936, studied at Miss Chapin's school, Barnard college, St. Timothy's school in Catonsville, Md., and abroad. Her father is a partner in J. P. Morgan & Co. Rowe is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jay Rowe. No wedding date was set.

Two Die When Car Plunges Through Ice; Four Rescued

Ticonderoga, N. Y., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Two persons, including a girl, 3 years old, drowned in Lake Champlain and four children suffered from exposure tonight when the automobile in which they were riding broke through the ice. The dead were Marie Bezio, daughter of Henry Bezio, driver of the car, and Miss Katherine Snow, 20 years old, his housekeeper, both of Ticonderoga. When the car broke through the ice, Bezio jumped to safety and managed to rescue four of his children—Doris, 14 years old; Raydene, 10; John, 7, and Vernal, 5.

TRIP TO INTERIOR OF PERU PROVIDES MILES OF THRILLS

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN RAMON, Peru, Jan. 8 [by air mail].—If a traveler is in Lima and wants to see something of Peru that is off the beaten path, the best choice is to go east.

There are two means of travel available — the national railway and the newly built central highway — running side by side. Selecting the railway, the starting time is 7 a. m. The facilities—depots and trains—are similar to those in the southern United States. Almost immediately the steep climb up the Andes begins. The start is up a sloping valley where there is much truck farming and the country homes of Lima citizens.

Scaling Face of Mountain.

After an hour the real climb begins. Trainmen say the grade is 5 per cent at the most, but it appears steeper. The zig-zag route is up the barren, rock face of a mountain. At intervals the track ends in a blind frog. The engine then reverses and ties on to the other end of the short train—two freight cars and two passenger cars, first and second class.

Altitude is gained rapidly and the change of temperature is quickly felt. The tillable soil bordering the mountain streams narrows down. Up we go and every few minutes the small, four wheel drive, oil burning engine doubles back to tie on the other end. Occasionally the engineer has a level stretch of track beyond his direction change switch. He backs the train into this, then takes a run for the next climb.

The turns are sharp and rocks jut out of the mountainside. At each turn the traveler thinks he must be near the top, but then more turns and climbs lie ahead. From the train window one can see the central highway. It has an oil treated surface, not asphalt, and is of only two car width. Its turns, grades, and bridges emphasize the steepness of our climb.

Change to Warmer Clothes.

After three hours out one becomes sharply aware of the altitude. A sign gives the figure 3,000 meters [9,842 feet]. People around the depot are wearing warm capes—down at Lima every one was in summer clothes.

A flock of llamas appears. This altitude is too high for burros, horses, and mules. Incidentally, the llama is used extensively as a beast of burden in the mountains. One hundred pounds is all they will carry. If more weight is put on, the llama lies down and refuses to navigate.

With a new engine the train starts the climb again. Rounding a rocky ridge we reach the snow line. The engine's chuffing seems labored. A doctor in a white tunic marked with a Red Cross passes through the train carrying an oxygen container. Because of the rare atmosphere most the passengers are asleep. Some are pale and their lips are blue. The doctor holds the oxygen tube to their noses for a few seconds. Their vitality quickly comes back.

Through Pass 16,000 Feet Up.

At last we reach the top of the pass —16,000 feet up—and level off on a barren plateau. On all sides there are many higher snow capped peaks. The train starts the descent on the eastern slope of the mountain. A pile of brake shoes is evidence of the strain put on the trains on this line.

After a 2,000 foot descent from the crest of the mountain, we reach Oroya, the eastern end of the line. The town has a small hydro-electric plant and a big American owned copper smelter. The copper mines are a few miles to the north. The company has its own railroad line for hauling ore. The company owned hotel puts up transients as a courtesy. Sleeping is difficult for one unaccustomed to the altitude [14,000 feet]—one gasps for air during the night.

The rest of the journey to the army's inland airport at San Ramon must be made by car. The distance from Oroya to San Ramon is only 100 miles, but it is a difficult drive. Negotiating for a car and driver is another task. Finally a driver agrees to take the traveler to Tarma, the halfway point.

A Nerve Testing Drive.

Going from Oroya in an American made car, the road leads through more mountain passes before starting downward. The road is much like that on Pikes Peark in Colorado, with sharp turns and steep grades. There are a few goats and sheep here and there, deep ravines, and little vegetation. We reach Tarma in two hours. We are still 10,000 feet up.

Tarma is a little town of 3,000 inhabitants, with narrow mud streets and one and two story mud and wood buildings. A car is engaged for early morning for the fifty mile drive down to San Ramon. It is a drive for artists and daredevils to take—others, lay off!

There is mile after mile of single car width road, loosely graveled and zigzagging. Because of the narrowness, trafic from Tarma to San Ramon runs on alternate days—one day going east, another going west. But every turn reveals a new rare panorama and furnishes a thrill for any adventurer.

One Foot from Disaster.

The gravel is slippery after the night's rain—and it is only 12 inches from the outside wheel to the edge of a 2,000 foot drop. The road has no protective curbing. Down in the gorge there is a roaring torrent.

The car passes through tunnels barely large enough for even a small car. It goes under waterfalls, around hairpin turns, and has an occasional slip on the west surface. At long last San Ramon is reached without a mishap. It took four hours for the fifty miles.

SALVADOR MOBILIZES TROOPS AND POLICE; NIPS REVOLT PLOT

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

PANAMA, Jan. 15.—The government of El Salvador mobilized the army, the National Guard and the police last Friday to suppress an expected revolution, reports brought here today disclosed. All troops were concentrated in barracks and forts, all leaves were canceled and before midnight the streets of the capital were patroled by soldiers armed with machine guns.

It is understood that the government claims to have received information from its secret service that the revolution was planned for midnight. It was also reported that numerous arrests of suspects were made by the police and some persons were placed under guard in their homes. Calm was restored yesterday.

The proclamation of a new constitution continuing President Maximiliano H. Martinez in power for six years more is expected soon.

YOUTH IS KILLED BY 'L' TRAIN AT HOWARD STATION

An unidentified boy, 10 or 12 years old, was fatally injured early today when he was crushed between an elevated train and a platform at the Howard street station of the rapid transit line. Firemen extricated him alive, but he died soon afterward.

The boy, wearing Boy Scout trousers, almost beat death in a foot race with the train. He was on the north bound tracks when he was first seen by Edward Von Sprecken, 7102 Sheridan road, motorman of the train, a Howard street express. Von Sprecken was bringing the train to a stop.

"The boy was fifteen or twenty feet away," he told Rogers Park police. "I jammed on the brakes. The boy was running ahead of the train. With my train rapidly being slowed down he would have escaped death if he had kept on running. Instead he stopped and made a desperate effort to climb to the platform."

The train wedged the youngster against the platform at almost the same instant it stopped. Firemen under Acting Chief Michael Hefferman of the 27th battalion tilted the train away from the platform with jacks. In a few minutes the boy was freed and hurried to the hospital. He had brown hair, gray eyes, and protruding teeth, and was 4 feet 7 inches tall. A Boy Scout belt bore the name "Billie."

G. O. P. SENATORS APPROVE STEP TO UNIFY U. S. RELIEF

Lodge Says Plan Should Be Even Broader.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Republican members of the senate unemployment committee today indorsed the Democratic majority's recommendation that relief activities be centered in a department of public works.

In separate minority reports Senators Henry Cabot Lodge [R., Mass.] and James J. Davis [R., Pa.] contended, however, that the Democratic proposals did not go far enough toward taking politics and favoritism out of relief and criticized some other majority recommendations.

The third Republican member of the seven man committee, Lynn J. Frazier [N. D.], signed the majority report.

Urge Unification of Four Units.

The committee's majority report yesterday recommended consolidation of WPA, PWA, CCC, and NYA under a new public works department, asked that relief allocations to the states be earmarked and urged that one-third local contributions on work projects be required, with some exceptions.

Davis contended that the work program "should be operated by an organization that is immune from political influence and favoritism and should be so safeguarded by authority of law that political manipulation of the funds and of the workers should meet with the most swift corrective penalties."

Lodge Offers Suggestions.

Lodge, while indorsing the consolidation idea, suggested it might be preferable "while continuing federal financial support, to treat CCC as a conservation activity to be carried out under state conservation authority, and NYA as an educational activity" under educational standards of the various states.

A senate appropriations subcommittee will begin consideration tomorrow of the $725,000,000 emergency relief bill passed Saturday by the house. That bill represented a cut from the $875,000,000 requested by President Roosevelt.

PUBLISHER FIGHTS CANADIAN BAN ON RADIO SPEAKERS

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Politicians assembled in Ottawa for the present session of parliament listened with interest if not approval this evening to a condemnation of their works and ways by George McCullagh, young and wealthy proprietor of the Toronto Globe and Mail, who broadcast by means of electrical transcription from nineteen Canadian stations.

McCullagh used this device to defeat the embargo placed by the nationally owned Canadian Broadcasting corporation on the dissemination over national chains of the views of any individual not sponsored by a political party.

The government justifies the ban on the ground that to allow rich men to buy the air time to voice their opinions would discriminate against poor men who could not. McCullagh charged that the ban was "a betrayal of the freedom of speech" and its offer of a fourteen minute participation in its "forum" feature was "an iniquitous piece of intrigue."

Alfred Cowles, Civic Leader and Tribune Director, Dies

Born—Jan. 5, 1865.
Died—Jan. 15, 1939.

ALFRED COWLES.

Alfred Cowles, a director of the Chicago Tribune company for forty-eight years and a leader in Chicago's civic affairs, died yesterday in his home at 1130 Lake Shore drive. He had been ill of heart disease for several months, but the immediate cause of death was pneumonia. He was 74 years old.

Mr. Cowles was born in Chicago, the son of Alfred Cowles Sr., an associate of Joseph Medill, founder of THE TRIBUNE. The elder Cowles was business manager of THE TRIBUNE in its early years. He died in 1889. Alfred Cowles became a director of THE TRIBUNE two years later. He served this newspaper as treasurer in 1898, and as secretary and treasurer from 1889 to 1901.

Admitted to Bar in 1889.

Mr. Cowles was admitted to the bar in 1889 and practiced law for several years. In addition to his Tribune directorship he was a director of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company and the American Radiator company.

Mr. Cowles was an untiring campaigner against waste and inefficiency in government. He was president of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency from 1932 to 1935.

Mr. Cowles was graduated from Yale university in 1886. In that year he was captain of the champion varsity crew, which set a record for the upstream course on the Thames river at New London, Conn. This record stood until 1923. Mr. Cowles was deeply interested in the affairs of the university.

$350,000 Gift to Yale.

In 1928 the Alfred Cowles Sr. Foundation was established at Yale through the gift of $350,000 to the university by Mr. Cowles, his brother, William H., and his sister, Mrs. Philip B. Stewart. It was specified that the money was to be used in the study of public and governmental affairs.

Mr. Cowles' favorite sports were shooting and golf. He was a member of the Chicago, Commercial, University, Saddle and Cycle, Onwentsia, and Old Elm clubs.

In 1890 he married Miss Elizabeth Cheney, daughter of Knight Dexter Cheney of South Manchester, Conn. Mrs. Cowles died in 1898.

Surviving Mr. Cowles are three sons, Alfred III. of Colorado Springs, Colo.; John C. of Meriden, N. H., and Knight C. of Lake Forest.

Mr. Cowles' brother, William, who is a newspaper publisher of Spokane, Wash., and a vice president of the Associated Press, his sister, Mrs. Stewart, of Colorado Springs, and six grandchildren also survive. The grandchildren are Richard L., Ann, Mary Hoyt, Sarah Frances, Edith Farnsworth, and Elizabeth Cheney Cowles.

New Supply of Snowball Ammunition Is Due Today

The snow was just right for packing yesterday and Chicago's younger set turned out for snowball fights. Owners of high hats prudently left them at home. The weather bureau indicated there will be a new supply of ammunition today, the forecast reading "unsettled and colder, possibly some light snow."

LAD SEES WORLD UPSIDE DOWN— BUT SETS IT RIGHT

Frank Balek, 12 years old, who sees a backhand world upside down, is continuing to solve by himself the difficulties which educators once gave up as hopeless.

To solve this, he originated his own method of writing upside down, beginning at the bottom of a page, in the lower right corner, and writing from right to left. So phenomenal has been his progress that scientists and educators visit him constantly.

He now averages 85 in his studies, William R. Bowlin, the school principal, said yesterday. His reading is far above average, as is his free hand drawing. Next week he goes to New York to be on Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" program, but his single ambition, singularly enough, is far from school work. "I want to be a singer!" he says proudly.

Governors Keep Pledges to Economize.

Moves to keep campaign pledges of economy have been started by newly inaugurated administrations in more than a dozen states, which are following the example set by conservative Democrats and the Republicans in the new congress in Washington.

In addition to Ohio and Rhode Island, where news dispatches last week told of the progress of new Republican governors in eliminating political pay rollers, the following reports were received yesterday of economy measures in the various states:

Agree to Oust Pay Rollers.

IOWA—Gov. George A. Wilson and his Republican executive council have agreed to discharge eighty-eight statehouse employés in keeping with Wilson's pledge that Iowa should have a sufficient number of public servants to attend the public business and no more. He made this statement last Thursday before the legislature in his inaugural address and the legislature promised to eliminate all overlapping functions of government.

Gov. Wilson immediately fired nine conservation officers who drew a total of $17,700 in salaries last year. He also stopped all spending from a $500,000 emergency conservation appropriation made last year. Wilson also will sell about half of the state-owned automobiles, including the handsome limousine in which Gov. Nels G. Kraschel traveled about the state.

MARYLAND — An undetermined number of state highway employés have been ordered fired by Democratic Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor and the legislature is preparing bills for the elimination of ten state departments and the establishment of five.

Fires Liquor Purchasing Agents.

MICHIGAN—Since Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald, Republican, took office, fifty-six employés and the purchasing agents of the state liquor commission have been discharged and the state auditor will dismiss eight employés in his office. The governor wants the state liquor monopoly to be merely a warehouse through which liquor will pass for tax purposes and not a haven for pay rollers.

MINNESOTA—Gov. Harold E. Stassen, Republican, has discharged 14 lawyers employed by the Benson administration last year and 150 highway employés. The politically operated state relief and social security office used by the Farmer Laborites to pay party debts also are due for huge cuts. Then the state crime bureau and highway patrol will be placed under one head.

MISSOURI—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, Democrat, will ask state departments to cut their budget requests to the point where the state can save 16 million dollars in the next two years.

NEBRASKA—A bill has been introduced to cut the salaries of five appointive officers by 25 per cent and other economy measures are planned.

NEW JERSEY—Gov. A. Harry Moore's Democratic administration is seeking to balance the state budget by eliminating or consolidating eleven state departments.

Abolish Boards and Bureaus.

OKLAHOMA—Leon C. Phillips, conservative Democratic governor, has set his economy goal at 8 million dollars a year by virtual elimination of the New Deal set up by Gov. E. W. Marland in the last four years. This would mean abolition of twelve boards, bureaus, and commissions. At least $1,000,000 will be saved yearly by eliminating the planning and resources commission. Other jobs to be abolished are the ports of entry and gasoline inspectors and the public welfare board which distributed relief commodities.

UTAH—Gov. Henry H. Blood has asked the legislature to stop spending and tax only under pressure of extreme necessity. He has reiterated his pledge of economy.

WISCONSIN—Republican Gov. Julius P. Heil has indicated the state highway department force will be cut sharply in a few weeks. The Wisconsin Development authority and state agriculture authority with $600,000 and $100,000 respectively to spend each year soon will be things of the past. Seven contract lawyers have been fired and the attorney general's staf hereafter will look after the state's legal business. Gov. Heil said the state was overrun with inspectors and enforcement agents and that these should be reduced to a minimum or eliminated.

W. ARTHUR M'KINNEY, NEW SCOUT EXECUTIVE, TAKES CHARGE TODAY

W. A. McKinney.

W. Arthur McKinney will take office today as the new scout executive of the Chicago council of the Boy Scouts of America. His appointment was announced last month by R. Douglas Stuart, president of the council, which is the largest in the country. It has an enrollment of 23,000 boys in scouting. Mr. McKinney, who is 49 years old, was executive of the Rochester, N. Y., council for twenty-seven years. Mr. McKinney succeeds Ralph H. Nodine, who died last August.

Paper Sack Bandit Robs Another Hamburger Stand

HARVARD'S LAW FACULTY SPLIT OVER NEW DEAL

Espousal of Radicalism Causes Schism.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Attempts of the Roosevelt administration to change the American system of government have precipitated violent repercussions here at Harvard law school, oldest of the nation's seats of legal learning.

The law school faculty is split over court packing, the mushroom growth of burocratic or administrative law, assaults on the constitution, and other issues raised by the present régime in Washington. It is no mere academic tempest in a teacup. It is the greatest schism in the 122 year history of the institution.

Dean Is Storm Center.

The storm center of the controversy is Dean James McAuley Landis, disciple of Prof. Felix Frankfurter, who is an adviser to the President and his most recent appointee to the United States Supreme court. Landis is the former chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission and the ardent author of much of the recent left wing legislation.

Joined with the dean is a group of Harvard law professors who have made periodic visits to Washington to hold down administrative positions, write briefs, give legal advice, and perform other tasks which carry no financial sacrifice.

It is this group which carries the Roosevelt propaganda home to the 1,400 students in the law school.

Eating Clubs are Forums.

Their principal forums are the Chancery club and Lincoln's inn, eating clubs for law students. Speeches favoring court packing and ridiculing the conservative viewpoint have been delivered by faculty members at law club banquets.

Because it is traditional for Harvard to gaze with cultivated aplomb upon the rest of the country and stay out of the public arena, the conservatives in the faculty are slow to move. But once in a while resentment boils over.

Such a flareup occurred during the heat of the court fight, when a group of professors attacked President Roosevelt's court packing scheme on the grounds that it would undermine the foundations of American democracy.

Protest in Open Letter.

Dated March 21, 1937, this protest, in the form of an open letter, was signed by Profs. Edward H. Warren, Joseph Warren, and Morton C. Campbell. Prof. Edward Warren gave out an explanatory statement which read as follows:

"The common impression is that the bulk of the Harvard law school faculty is in favor of the President's proposal. This is partly due to the fact that Prof. Frankfurter has been a prominent adviser to the President. It also is partially due to the fact that Dean-Designate Landis has spoken in favor of the proposal. He did not in so doing assume to state anything but his personal views, and yet there is an inescapable tendency for the public to think of him in his capacity as the new dean and to draw the conclusion that his views are the views of the faculty.

"The impression thus created is very much regretted by many members of the faculty, who feel we are in a false position before the public. Most of us are very hesitant to talk in public on questions of burning public interest lest statements made by us as individuals should be taken as corporate statements. But it is clear that a false impression has arisen and is widespread in the minds of the public and that it should be corrected."

Divided Stand Described.

Warren pointed out that of the thirty men on the faculty nineteen had stated in public that they were opposed to the President's proposition. The other eleven were divided, he revealed, among those opposed but wary of making a public statement, those who were noncommittal, and those, like Landis, who were in favor of packing the court.

Decades of graduates have known Prof. Warren as an authority on property law. The students call him "Bull" Warren because of his dynamic classroom personality. Woe betide the youth who hasn't prepared his cases.

Dr. Samuel Williston, now retired, internationally known as an authority on the law of contracts, also assailed the President's scheme on the grounds that the judiciary can fulfill its constitutional function only if it is independent. Harvard's president, James Bryant Conant, also condemned the court bill.

This correspondent sought out Dean Landis to ask him specifically about the charges that propaganda instead of law was being taught at Harvard. In talks at the Faculty club and in the dean's office at Langdell hall, Landis denied that such a condition existed.

The Harvard law school faculty, he asserted, was composed of men representing all shades of opinion, political and economic.

Asserts Opinions Are Kept Out.

"Why, we even have several who are old mossbacks from my viewpoint," added Dean Landis with a wry smile.

But personal opinions were not carried into the classroom, he asserted.

In the middle of the room was the huge circular desk invented by the retired dean, Roscoe Pound, from which he could reach out in any direction with 450 legal tomes at arms' length.

Resting on a chair and yet to be hung was an oil portrait of the late Supreme Court Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo.

Anna Lester.

Anna Lester, 17 years old, a pupil at the Washburne continuation school, was on a hunger strike in the Cass county jail in Logansport, Ind., last night. She was taken into custody Friday when she was found on a Florida-bound train without a ticket. She had tried to lock herself in a stateroom on the train.

Miss Lester, who lives at 1661 North Claremont avenue, has refused to eat since Saturday noon. Yesterday Sherif Dewey Schmidt offered her a dinner of chicken and dumplings, but she spurned the food. "All she'll take is water and smoke a cigaret," he said.

When arrested she refused to give her address. It was not until last night that the Chicago police learned of her detention in Logansport. Her parents were notified. Saturday night she fled from the women's quarters in the jail, but was recaptured an hour later.

GREEN SETS FAST PACE IN DRIVE FOR MAYORALTY

20 Speeches Scheduled for This Week.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Dwight H. Green today will plunge back into his strenuous campaign for the Republican mayoral nomination. Twenty speaking engagements have been scheduled for this week, in addition to conferences with groups working with him in plans for civic improvements.

The silver haired young candidate [he is 42] will make his second radio broadcast at 9:30 p. m. tonight. After that he will speak to 8th ward workers at 7441 Ingleside avenue, with Committeeman Andrew C. Metzger presiding. Later he will talk to workers in the 4th ward at 4905 Cottage Grove avenue. Charles Krutckoff, ward committeeman, will sponsor this meeting.

Takes Daughters to Park.

Yesterday Green took a day off to keep up his regular attendance at St. James Episcopal church and to have a romp in snow-covered Lincoln park with his two daughters, Gloria, 7, and Nancy, 11.

This week's activities will start with his appearance before the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs in the Auditorium hotel at 2 o'clock today. At 3 p. m. he will receive G. O. P. leaders from the Carl Schurz Round Table, a weekly luncheon group.

"He is the hardest working candidate I've ever seen," said Charles B. Goodspeed, treasurer of the Republican national committee, a veteran campaigner.

"His vitality is amazing. Last week he did enough to keep five men busy and only once did he show fatigue. That was on the evening of his birthday party, when he shook hands with 2,700 people and had to go on to a radio broadcast and two ward meetings."

Keeps Aids Stepping Fast.

The pace Green sets keeps his associates stepping fast. In his college days Green was quarter back on the football team, shortstop on the baseball team, and a track star for good measure. His capacity for hard work came in handy when he prepared the complex income tax cases which jailed Chicago gang leaders; he was then an assistant United States district attorney, and later district attorney.

The Green-for-Mayor headquarters yesterday gave special mention to one of his supporters. She is Mrs. Catherine Geisemann, 96 years old, of 8113 South Paulina street, whose husband, Albert Geisemann, voted for Abraham Lincoln.

"I met Mr. Green," said chatty Mrs. Geisemann. "When you've had all my experience in judging people you can size a man up pretty well. I could see that Mr. Green is honest, sincere, and intelligent. I'll be proud to vote for him."

Secretly Married

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE BALANCHINE.

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Ballet Director George Balanchine can sing the song hit "I Married an Angel" and mean it now, because on the day before Christmas he was wed to the dancing star of the Broadway musical of that name—Vera Zorina.

The couple tonight disclosed they were married at New Brighton, Staten Island. Zorina gave her age as 22 and also her right name, Brigitta Hartwig.

PREVIEW MOVIE SHOWING DRAMA OF CITY GROWTH

A thirty minute moving picture dramatizing Chicago's growth was presented in a preview last night in the Erlanger theater before more than 1,000 members of Chicago's New Century committee and friends of Mayor Kelly.

The picture, entitled "Your Chicago" and produced by the New Century committee, which is headed by the mayor, will be shown in movie houses throughout the city.

Mayor Kelly introduced the picture with a brief speech.

Europe Fears New Period of Tension.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Europe tonight was anticipating another period of international tension with the return of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain from Rome after his visit with Premier Mussolini. He came back empty handed.

While Chamberlain did not give anything away to the Italians, it seems he did not get anything out of them either, except elaborate entertainment and disconcerting information on two subjects:

FIRST—Mussolini has no intention of withdrawing his Italian legions from Spain until after a victory by Generalissimo Francisco Franco, rebel commander in chief, is assured.

SECOND—The Germans and Italians count on their position in Spain to use the Spanish coast as submarine bases afterward.

Germany Supports Italy.

In view of these two pieces of information, which it is said Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, let out to Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, it is anticipated that Il Duce immediately will push his claims against France for a slice of France's African empire with greater vigor. It also appears that he has the backing of the Germans in any move he might make.

Accordingly, it seems evident that the Mediterranean is likely to be the scene of fireworks within a short time as central Europe was last summer. The signal for setting them off probably will be given when Franco closes in on Barcelona, capital of loyalist Spain.

[Dispatches from Rome said Mussolini had informed Chamberlain that any conciliation of the French-Italian quarrel must await the end of the Spanish civil war with Franco as the victor. In Paris the executive committee of Premier Edouard Daladier's Radical Socialist party demanded that the government act to prevent a rebel victory, aided by Italy, from menacing France's Mediterranean empire.]

Threat from Italy Expected.

The French, it is reported, are expecting Mussolini to send them a threatening note setting forth his ambitions in Tunisia, French protectorate in North Africa; Djibouti, French Somaliland, and the Suez canal.

What happens will depend on two things. One is how much support Hitler will give his friend, Mussolini, in acquiring some swag. The other is the strength of the British backing of France's "hands off" warning to Italy and a demonstration of solidarity of their friendship pact as compared with the Rome-Berlin axis.

There are some indications that Chamberlain intends to urge the French to make some concessions to Italy.

[At Geneva, it was reported that Britain and France are working out a scheme to give Italy free port privileges in Djibouti, French Somaliland, and Zeila, British Somaliland. Both ports are on the Gulf of Eden and railway and highway termini into Italy's Ethiopia. From France, Italy also would get one or more seats on the Suez Canal company's board, reduced rates in the canal, and rights for Italians in Tunisia equal with the rights of the French there.]

It is highly significant that the London Times, which is friendly to Chamberlain, for some time has been making covert suggestions that the French must make some kind of concessions to Italy. The Times early last September said Czecho-Slovakia had to make concessions to Hitler. A few weeks later Hitler annexed Sudetenland.

British Sigh with Relief.

The British seemed to breathe a sigh of relief when Chamberlain returned to London with both his shirt and his umbrella intact and without having made, so far as is known, any new pledges.

The "old fellow" was received with as many boos as cheers by a big crowd which gathered at the railway station. Two of the jeering demonstrators were arrested on charges of "using insulting words."

Fearing serious disturbances efforts were made to hoodwink crowds and prevent hostile demonstrations such as marked the prime minister's departure for Rome last Tuesday. The boat train was halted outside London and Chamberlain's coach was detached and sent on ahead. While crowds waited on the boat train platform, Chamberlain's special drew in on the other side of the station and the prime minister was whisked out of a side entrance.

Demonstrations also were expected in Whitehall and Downing street and mounted police reserves were held in readiness. A few hundred people were cleared from Downing street just before Chamberlain's car arrived at No. 10—his official residence. In movie theaters, audiences booed when Mussolini and Chamberlain were shown together.

The prime minister will call a meeting of a few ministers tomorrow. He will meet with his cabinet on Wednesday to give an account of the Rome visit. He probably will make a statement on his conversation with Mussolini when parliament reassembles Jan. 31.

Tiny Shoes

BRIGHTON, England, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Edward Casey, unemployed because of illness, makes what he believes are the tiniest shoes in the world. Some of them were sent to Princess Margaret Rose on her last birthday and Casey received an acknowledgment from Queen Elizabeth. Mr. Casey has two other hobbies, miniature painting and song writing.

OUST BRITAIN'S SOLDIERS, IRISH REPUBLICANS ASK

DUBLIN, Ireland, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Irish Republicans launched a verbal tirade today against England, their most bitter foe.

Proclamations by "the Irish Republican government and the Irish Republican army"—both illegal organizations—were posted in Dublin and Belfast demanding ouster of British civil and military representatives from all Ireland.

Two thousand members of the old Irish Republican army met in Dublin and passed a resolution repudiating alliance or coöperation with Britain in any war as long as a single British soldier remains on Irish soil. The members pledged themselves to "take any opportunity which England's difficulties might offer" to reunite Northern Ireland with Ireland.

COOKIE BANDIT'S CAREER GOES UP IN PUFF OF SMOKE

Fred Kuehn and his wife, Olga, have an apartment above their bakery at 3008 Madison street. Mrs. Kuehn heard a noise in the bakery yesterday. When she came downstairs she found:

1. A bonfire of paper and holiday decorations burning on a bench. 2. Cookies strewn over the floor. 3. A ragged boy of 10 pointing a loaded revolver at her.

Mrs. Kuehn seized the boy and called her husband. They stomped out the fire. He said he was David Cerms, 2959 Fifth avenue. He had his pockets stuffed with cookies, some cigarets and keys belonging to Kuehn, and a fountain pen and pencil set. He had broken in through a basement window. Warren avenue police took David to the Juvenile home.

DEMAND FRANCE COMBAT 'ITALIAN' VICTORY IN SPAIN

Duce Accused of Violating "Hands Off" Pledge.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The executive committee of Premier Edouard Daladier's Radical Socialist party demanded today that the government consider necessary steps to prevent an Italian aided rebel victory in Spain from menacing France's Mediterranean empire.

A resolution adopted by the committee accused Italy of violating its promises made to the London nonintervention committee. It added that continued Italian occupation of Spain proper, the Spanish Balearic Islands, and Spanish Morocco created "the gravest peril for our Mediterranean communications."

The sudden preoccupation of Daladier's own party with the whirlwind series of rebel victories in Catalona, just south of the French border, injected a new note into the French-Italian territorial quarrel.

Rebel Victory a Danger to France.

Daladier conferred in secret with members of the party governing committee on the danger to France of a rebel victory and in a speech to an open meeting of the committee warned that the next several weeks would be a time of uneasiness for the republic and its empire.

In an obvious reference to Italian clamor for a share of France's territorial holdings the premier declared that all internal quarrels must be ended if France is to survive.

"My government will concentrate all energy to prevent a conflict which would mark the end of western civilization," he thundered. "But it will never allow France's position and interests to be questioned either by force or by ruse."

Senator Aimé Berthod, former cabinet member, declared before the open committee meeting that if the French government permitted Italy to remain in the Balearic Islands "installed on communications between France and North Africa, it is the end of the French empire."

Suspect Italy's Good Faith.

Referring to Italian denunciation of the 1935 French-Italian treaty, Berthod told the cheering Radical Socialists that from the way Italy had respected her other promises France could feel some anxiety on the way she would keep her promise to get out of Spain.

[The Italian government notified France last month that it considered "no longer valid" the 1935 accord which gave Italy 44,000 square miles of desert south of Libya, about thirty square miles between Eritrea and French Somaliland, and sovereignty over the Island of Dumeira. It also assured Italians in French governed Tunisia the right of Italian citizenship until 1965 and made other concessions.]

MR. PLEIMLING'S WATER BATTLE LANDS HIM IN JAIL

George Pleimling, 9425 Trumbull avenue, Evergreen Park, who neglected to pay a six months' water bill of $5.42 to village officials, was arrested yesterday on a warant charging him with tampering with the village water supply. Water to the Pleimling home was shut off last Monday. Tuesday, Pleimling reconnected the water pipes. Two days later, the pipes again were disconnected by the village water department. Pleimling faces a maximum fine of $100 if found guilty. He will appear before Justice of the Peace Frank Ozinga Wednesday.

Miss Emma Wooster, 85 years old, 5318 Greenwood avenue, died yesterday in County hospital of injuries suffered in a fall.

LONDON WINDOWS BROKEN BY BLAST OF MYSTERY GAS

Inventor, Who Says He Is Chicagoan, Burned.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 15.—A police guard tonight protected the West End home of Henry Unschuld, said to be a Chicago inventor, after the explosion of a tank of secret motor fuel, on which he was experimenting for the British air ministry.

[The Chicago address of Unschuld could not be learned last night.]

Unschuld suffered burns about the hands and head. His assistant, Harry Cohen, was sent to the hospital suffering from severe burns and shock. The scientist's wife and 14 year old son were uninjured.

Would Revolutionize Motoring.

Friends said Unschuld planned to revolutionize motoring and flying with the new secret gas. British experts had said they believed that if the tests proved successful the gas would prove a vital factor in Great Britain's air rearmament.

The explosion occurred at midday. Firemen and police dashed to the scene. Scotland Yard detectives remained several hours taking photographs and measurements. All of the gas cylinders were removed from the apartment, the doors locked and windows boarded up. No one was allowed to approach the house tonight.

Hundreds of windows in a radius of fifty yards, including some in the nearby Chinese embassy, were shattered by the force of the blast. Walls and ceilings of adjoining houses were cracked.

Arrived Last Month.

Unschuld arrived here in December, it was disclosed tonight. British government representatives recently visited his apartment and workshop. They said it was impossible to tell what he was working on but that "gas and carburation are part of it. If the experiments succeed it will be a great thing for Britain."

Unschuld said that "while working in the apartment a tank containing a gaseous mixture broke, the gas became ignited and the explosion occurred."

CHARGES JEWS TURN AMERICA AGAINST NAZIS

DETMOLD, Germany, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, Nazi philosopher, editor, and Jew baiter, charged today that dependence of the Democratic party on "its Jewish financial backers" was responsible for "America's attitude toward Germany." Addressing a massmeeting marking the sixth anniversary of Nazi assumption of power in Lippe, Rosenberg said:

"As concerns the American attitude toward Germany, the explanation lies in the fact that the leading Democratic party is fully dependent on its Jewish financial backers. In America they attempt to influence people to forget what a great part German immigrants played in development of the new world."

LINDBERGH DESCRIBED AS AGENT FOR HITLER BY COMMUNIST PAPER

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Jan. 15.—Another bitter communist attack on Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was contained in a recent number of the English edition of Communist International, organ of the comintern. Lindbergh recently was scolded by leading soviet aviators who alleged he had belittled soviet aviation to Prime Minister Chamberlain's followers in England. It was charged Lindbergh's criticism resulted in Britain's surrender to Adolf Hitler's demands for Sudetenland. Under the heading, "Father and Son," the Communist International seeks to contrast the elder Lindbergh, a Minnesota congressman in the earlier years of this century, with his aviator son.

"It is fortunate for Lindbergh's father he did not live to see his son's betrayal of the ideals of democracy for which he himself had always fought and made great sacrifices," the paper says.

"The elder Lindbergh was a man of the people, of the type of Lincoln, and if he were alive today he would certainly be a stanch friend of the soviet union. Young Lindbergh has become Hitler's public agent and carries out jobs of provocation for him in the interest of Fascist Germany."

LEAGUE DEFEATS PLAN TO OUST ITS 'RULE' IN DANZIG

Agent to Retain Title at Poland's Desire.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Poland's desire that the league of nations continue its nominal control over Nazi-dominated Danzig was said tonight to have squelched a plan to relieve Karl Burckhardt of his post as league high commissioner.

On the eve of the 104th session of the league council, authoritative sources said Burckhardt, a German speaking Swiss, would not return to the Free City but, at least for the present, would retain his title.

Wants to Quit Post.

Burckhardt yesterday told delegates of Great Britain, France, and Sweden, members of the league's Danzig committee, that his position in the Free City was "extremely difficult" and asked them to accept his resignation.

[It was disclosed in Berlin that Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany would go to Warsaw this month to seek Polish coöperation in Germany's eastern European and Baltic aspirations. These include the return of Danzig, which was taken from Germany after the world war and has been administered by the league.]

British and French indicated that it was up to Poland to say whether or not the league should continue in Danzig since the commission was created to safeguard Warsaw's interests there.

Until Poland requests its withdrawal, a league spokesman said, the league will retain its "theorefical control" over the Nazified Free City.

Engage in "Hotel Politics."

With the opening tomorrow of the council session, league circles, steeped in post-Munich gloom, watched diplomats engage in "hotel politics" that had little to do with league business.

League spokesmen acknowledged that Geneva now was forgotten amid what one called "the most unfavorable world conditions which have yet existed." Only "a miracle or a war," it was said, could give the league and its ideals a commanding place in Europe's power politics.

The main importance of the council meeting is that it gives French, British, and soviet Russian diplomats a chance to negotiate with representatives of smaller powers whose aid they seek.

California Honeymoon

ELIZABETH COOKE GORDON.

Palm Springs, Cal., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Mack Gordon, 32, of the song writing team of Gordon and Revel, was honeymooning here today with Elizabeth Cooke, actress, whom he married yesterday at Yuma, Ariz. The couple was attended at the ceremony by Harry Revel, the song writer's brother, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Silverman. Mrs. Gordon was married under her nonprofessional name, Elizabeth Massey.

244 MORE JEWS REACH SHANGHAI; TOTAL NOW 2,000

SHANGHAI, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The number of German Jewish refugees here was swelled to more than 2,000 today with the arrival of two groups totaling 244. Two hundred came by boat and the remainder arrived from the north after a trans-Siberian rail journey on which many became ill from the severe cold. The new arrivals, who had but little money, placed a new strain on local relief facilities, already overburdened by thousands of Chinese refugees.

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Jan. 15.—Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow, estranged husband of Barbara Hutton, the Woolworth 10 cent store heiress, has been spending the winter season here with his son Lance, 2 years old. According to the separation agreement, the father has Lance for a certain period each year.

NAZIS SEEK AID OF POLES TO PUSH EXPANSION PLAN

German Foreign Chief Will Call on Beck.

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop will continue Germany's effort to win Polish help for Nazi expansionist aspirations on a visit to Warsaw, it was disclosed today.

Von Ribbentrop will exchange toasts with Col. Josef Beck, the Polish foreign minister, on Jan. 26, the fifth anniversary of the signing of the German-Polish nonaggression treaty, and will participate in a special friendship demonstration.

During a meeting with Beck at Berchtesgaden, Jan. 5, Reichsfuehrer Hitler was understood to have canvassed with the Polish foreign minister what part Poland might play in settling European issues which the Nazis say eventually must be solved.

Germans Covet Memel.

These include the return to Germany of Memel and the free city of Danzig as well as a change in the status of the Polish corridor, Pomorze, which separates East Prussia from the rest of Germany, and the greater question of Germany's drive toward the Ukraine.

Danzig, taken from Germany after the world war, gave Poland an outlet to the Baltic sea at the head of the Polish corridor. The free city, 754 square miles in area and with a population of about 412,000, is under the protection of the league of nations. It has become a virtual annex of Nazi Germany except for formal German sovereignty.

The Memel territory, also detached from Germany by the treaty of Versailles, later was handed over to Lithuania. The territory, including the important port of Memel, covers 1,099 square miles and has a population of 150,106. Nazis won an overwhelming majority in Memel elections last month with the slogan: "Back to the Reich."

During the anniversary festivities Beck will be in a position to give Von Ribbentrop his government's reactions to whatever inducements Hitler held out for Polish collaboration.

Puts In Bid for Colonies.

Poland some time ago put in her bid for colonies in the belief that Britain and France were about to hand over some of their empires to Germany.

Some diplomatic sources expressed belief that the Fuehrer had offered to go to the mat for Poland in exchange for Polish neutrality in some spheres of Europe and for direct aid in others.

Both Poland and Germany have cause for rejoicing over their 1934 friendship pact.

Thus fortified in the east, Hitler has taken step after step—reviving military training, reoccupying the Rhineland, absorbing Austria and the Sudetenland.

The pact, signed a year after the Nazis came to power, was the first treaty they negotiated. On the Polish side it has banished fears of attacks on Danzig and the corridor for five years, and it has five years more to run.

LENI RIEFENSTAHL GAY AS SHE TELLS CHICAGO HITLER JUST HER BOSS

Leni Riefenstahl, Nazi film star, paused briefly in Chicago yesterday on her way back to Berlin after what she termed a "beautiful" stay in California.

Miss Riefenstahl did not comment on her Hollywood reception, where she is said to have been received with disfavor. Instead, sun tanned and clad in dark blue slacks and a brown tweed jacket, she rhapsodized about the "lovely mountains."

Her brown eyes dancing with amusement, she denied Adolf Hitler's reported romantic inclination toward her. "I know him well," she said, "but then I work for him." She denied, too, having any Jewish blood. "I haven't a bit, not the least bit," she said, gesturing with an armload of red roses. "It's a story."

When she arrived in the United States on Nov. 5, her first visit to this country, she spoke little English. Yesterday, however, she spoke it fluently. Her secretary, Werner Klingenberg, commentator for her Olympic games film, accompanied her.

ON THE PLUS SIDE

By CALEB

A BUSINESS acquaintance recently said to us: "In these days when newspaper 'news' is so disconcerting in its nature, every bond that can tie us to permanent values is on the plus side."

The permanent values which we had been discussing are those which particularly have to do with the human element finally responsible for the quality of every business. "As I see it," this executive continued, "the background against which management will more and more project its future is a 'personnel' background. Promotion, sales, production, merchandise, market trends, will become more and more secondary to the 'humanics' of an enterprise: its relations with employes, their relations with each other, and the relations of both to the ultimate employer of both: the Public.

"Modern personnel management, for example, goes importantly beyond the engaging of a person for so many hours per day at so much pay per hour. Aptitudes, health, experience, temperament, family setting, social environment, outside interests, hobbies and ambitions—all, from the personnel point of view, have their import, and influence the appraisal made of each individual in terms of that individual's work. Unspectacular in itself, and practically unknown to the general public—personnel analysis goes on every hour of the day in large organizations, and conditions both the morale of those organizations and the satisfaction rendered to their patrons.

"After all," he reminded us, "good business is no mystery. It is wholly a matter of good business people. People disposed in jobs to which they belong—then supplied with incentive from a source that is devoted to that purpose alone.

"Every problem of personnel is fundamentally a problem of keeping 'on the plus side.' That executives are growingly directing, rather than merely delegating, those activities which involve the worker, both apart from, and in relation to, his work—is one of the happiest auguries for better business in the future.

"Such an interest in the rank-and-file segregates and capitalizes the 'principles of enduring value' which make or break employe performance. Wisely, it predicates better sales on better personnel, as the safeguarding source of better sales."

GUARDIAN OF TAFT IN POISON SCARE MAY GET U. S. JOB

Wm. J. Healy Tasted Food of 800 at Banquet.

William J. Healy's service to his fellow man in 1916 was recalled yesterday when it was reported in Washington, D. C., that Healy had been selected by Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe to be his personal bailif. Healy risked his health that 800 persons who were entertaining a former President, William Howard Taft, might enjoy heir dinner.

Wm. J. Healy.

The risk was necessitated by fear of Jean Crones, who had poisoned the soup at a banquet given by 400 Chicagoans as a welcome to Archbishop George W. Mundelein, later to become cardinal.

Chef Puts Arsenic in Soup.

The banquet for Archbishop Mundelein was held in the University club Feb 10, 1916. Jean Crones was in the kitchen as a chef. Crones, it was learned later, was an anarchist and member of the I. W. W. He put a large quantity of arsenic in the soup.

Many of the guests became violently ill. The feast of welcome almost ended in a riot. Many lives were saved because Crones had put too much arsenic in the kettle. A lesser amount would have been lethal, but as it was they were deathly sick.

The wholesale attempt at murder was traced to Crones. He fled from the kitchen as the soup course was being served. A search of his room at 2201 Prairie avenue indicated he had planned the deed for some time.

Banquet Bids Go Begging.

Chicagoans, particularly Catholic groups, were timid about banquets for several months. The St. Patrick's day banquet of the Irish Fellowship club, at which ex-President Taft was to be the principal speaker, was regarded as a challenge to Crones or others of his ilk. Crones was not well known in Chicago. Any and every new waiter was suspected of being the poisoner.

There was a suggestion that the St. Patrick's day banquet be canceled. But Bill Healy, a young red head in the Circuit court clerk's office, agreed to defy Crones, so the banquet could be held.

The dinner was held. Healy tasted the soup. He smacked his lips—and remained alive. He did the same after sampling each successive course before it was served. Taft spoke. The day was saved. Healy was forgotten.

Crones never was apprehended.

For years Healy was a contractor. Recently he returned to public life. For twenty-five years he has been a close friend of Igoe. Whenever Igoe was a candidate Healy forgot his own affairs and devoted his time and labor to his friend. He lives at 5303 Cornell avenue.

The appointment as Igoe's bailif is expected to be announced as soon as Igoe is confirmed by the senate. Igoe's appointment as a judge of the United States District court came during a recess of congress.

DOROTHY KEEN.

Since last October jewelry valued at $1,000 has disappeared, a piece at a time, from the home of Mrs. Florence Keen, 419 West 61st street. Mrs. Keen never reported the thefts to police until Detectives James McNicholas and John Spratt called at her home recently.

The detectives were investigating a story told by William Lee Roland, 18 years old, 5847 Wentworth avenue. Roland had confessed a $27 theft, and had mentioned Mrs. Keen's daughter, Dorothy, 19, as one of his friends. When the detectives called, Mrs. Keen told them about the jewel thefts. And when they learned from Dorothy that she was in love with Roland, they decided to check the pawnshops.

The detectives recovered some of the jewelry and learned that a young woman had disposed of it. The address she had given was fictitious, but it proved to be the same one Roland had given. Dorothy, confronted with this evidence, confessed the thefts. Her mother signed a larceny complaint against her.

JAP FLYERS RAID CHINA'S CAPITAL; REPORT 200 DEAD

Mission School Is Hit; Joliet Girl Escapes.

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

CHUNGKING, Jan. 15.—The mists which almost perpetually enshroud Chungking cleared briefly today and Japanese planes, taking advantage of the improved visibility, droned over to administer the worst bombing the new China capital has yet experienced. Officials estimated 400 were killed, but persons who visited the bombed areas placed the dead at 200.

The Methodist Mission Girls school, an American institution, was damaged when a bomb hit the compound and smashed the front of the faculty residence and doors and windows of the main building. Miss Catherine Boeye of Ottumwa, Ia., and Miss Dorothy Jones of Joliet, Ill., ran out with the students and all escaped injury. The school is situated in the western suburbs and is not marked by American flags.

Teahouse Is Destroyed.

Casualties were heaviest inside the densely populated walled area on the south bank of the Kialing river, near the Yangtse intersection. There several buildings including a teahouse sheltering scores of persons were reduced to shambles. Seventy-five persons were killed or injured.

Chinese pursuit planes challenged the Japanese raiders and shot down a two motored bomber which fell in flames several miles below the city. In the haze above 6,000 feet, 27 Japanese planes arrived over the city in three flights about 1 p. m. The ensuing battle between the rival air forces could not be seen from below, but its progress was evidenced by the sounds of zooming motors and the popping of machine guns, which lasted for half an hour.

No Time to Flee Raiders.

Residents of the old section of the city virtually were trapped. It was impossible to cross the river or flee to open country to the west when alarms were sounded because of the lack of time.

Farther to the northwest of Hankow, former Chinese military capital, Japanese reported heavy air and artillery bombardments on Tungkwan and smaller towns. Tungkwan is eighty miles east of Sian, Shensi province capital.

The Central News agency at Wanhsien, down the Yangtse, reported that 130 civilians were killed or injured Saturday in a Japanese air raid there when bombs fell in the center of the city.

CHINESE YOUTH TO BE FORCED INTO JAP ARMY

SHANGHAI, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Japanese newspapers here reported today the Japanese-dominated Nanking reformed government soon would undertake conscription to force Chinese between the ages of 17 and 30 into its military service.

Japanese authorities in Shanghai declined to comment on the reports. It was understood, howeve., that the Nanking overnment expected to conscript 1,500,000 Chinese this year.

Doctor's Son, 14, Chided for Late Hours, Runs Away

Dr. Marshall D. Hayes, 8136 South Wood street, a physician, asked police last night to search for his son, Donald, 14 years old, who ran away from home yesterday after a scolding for returning home late from a dance Sunday morning. The boy wrote a note stating, "I'm sorry to be so much trouble." He took his clothes and $150 he had saved. Dr. Hayes said his wife is grief stricken and may have to go to a hospital if Donald does not return soon.

ACT ON MAYORAL PRIMARY SHIFT BILL TOMORROW

Measure Would Benefit G. O. P. Deserters.

BY PERCY WOOD.

State representatives will consider the first purely political question of the 1939 session tomorrow when the Pelka bill for an open mayoral primary is introduced.

At the request of Republican leaders, Representative John A. Pelka [R., Chicago] will present a measure to allow voters to enter either party fight on Feb. 28. It will carry an emergency clause and all efforts will be made to secure its adoption into law by that date.

The Republicans believe that such a law would bring more than 100,000 Chicago voters back into the 1939 and 1940 G. O. P. primaries. This is the estimated size of the bloc that went into the Democratic columns last April to vote for County Judge Jarecki.

Democrats Favor Bill.

Most Chicago Democratic leaders are also thought to be friendly to the Pelka bill, on the ground that they do not want Republicans in their factional fight.

A bill carrying an emergency clause must receive 102 votes in the house and 34 in the senate for passage. The G. O. P. house bloc contains 79 members—enough to advance a measure to third reading but insufficient to pass it. Democratic support must be found for the final roll call.

Chicago Democrats affiliated with the Nash-Kelly organization could furnish this help. Predictions were made last night that it would be forthcoming. It was not probable that third reading would be reached until next week, although an effort may be made to hold the members until Thursday for that purpose.

The same sort of bi-partisan effort would be necessary in the senate where the Republicans can muster only twenty of the thirty-four needed votes.

Sales Tax Up in House.

Another measure due for consideration in the house tomorrow is extension of the three cent sales tax with the third cent earmarked for relief revenue. The measure passed the senate last week, under guidance of the Democratic majority.

Should the Republican house majority choose to do so, it could cause trouble for this bill. No organized opposition bloc had appeared last night.

Robert J. Branson of Centralia, G. O. P. house floor leader, said the house leadership would not strive to line the Republicans as a unit against it.

There are thirty-one bills on Speaker Hugh Cross' desk awaiting assignment to committees.

★THE RULES★

1. This offer is open free to every one everywhere, excepting employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families.
2. A new crossword puzzle containing the name and nickname of one of the 48 States of the United States will be printed in the Chicago Daily Tribune each week day until 48 have appeared. You are invited to solve these puzzles and find the names and nicknames.
3. Puzzles are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do not send in each puzzle separately. Hold until you have the complete set of 48. Then send them to "Nicknames," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. Entries must be in by midnight one week after Puzzle No. 48 has been printed.
4. The Chicago Tribune will pay 430 cash prizes totaling $5,000 for the most nearly correctly solved, complete sets of puzzles submitted in accordance with these rules. (See Prize List.)
5. You do not have to solve ALL the puzzles correctly to win. Prizes will be paid to those persons whose entries rank highest.
6. No person may submit more than one entry. No one shall be entitled to more than one prize. Entries must be sent by First Class Mail, Postage Prepaid. Each entry must be accompanied by a letter, giving your name and address, and completing in 25 words or less, a statement telling which of the States you think is the most appropriately nicknamed. Such statements will be considered only if two or more persons submit equally correct solutions to the puzzles; in which event, judgment will be solely on the basis of sincerity and originality of thought.
7. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles. The Chicago Tribune may be examined free at its offices or Public Libraries. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune and their decisions shall be final and binding. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be paid to tying contestants.

COURAGE OF U. S. PIONEERS ENDS POWER OF BRITISH

Hornets' Nest of Rebels Helps Start America.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kings Mountain, N. C., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—"The sword of the Lord and of Gideon."

The days of 1780 in the book of America's beginnings were days of Old Testament wrath and courage.

It was a dark time, with the southern seaboard prostrate at the feet of British, and Cornwallis taking a lofty and confident attitude toward the American rebels. There was only one annoyance, and that was from those rough fellows of the western waters, the pioneer settlers in the Piedmont and valley sections that ran from Pennsylvania down to the settlers that unless they retired he would cross the mountains, burn their settlements and hang every man to the nearest tree.

The answer that came from the settlers was one of the most surprising in the history of the Revolution, one that marked the downward course of the British power in America.

The men of the hill and valley settlements had put all thought of Great Britain and Europe out of their hearts long ago. They were on their way across the continent, "ordained of God," as Daniel Boone said, to conquer and settle the wilderness and build a new nation.

They stopped for a moment in the month of September of this fateful year.

Death of Ferguson.

They stopped long enough to get their rifles, tin cups, blankets, and put some parched corn in their wallets and march to this mountain near the South Carolina border, where Ferguson had taken his stand and defied all hell to blow him out. They proceeded to unleash the thunder of their white and righteous wrath to the destruction of the British and the death of Ferguson. After this it was not long to Yorktown and the end.

Let us see who some of these men were, the character that had been fused in these hills into a new force with which the world is not yet done, the character which still finds expression in the American outlook. It was that of the citizen soldier, product of a century of fighting with Indians and in gaining a forest livelihood. It was that of men sure of themselves, each in a sense his own officer, not professional fighters, but defenders of their homes, their children and their country newly risen out of mankind's troubled sea.

One Robert Young took down his rifle, "Sweetlips," named for his wife, from over the door of his cabin on the Holston river and started off in a hurry to join the force of John Sevier at Sycamore Shoals on the Watauga. Jacob Brown, who had moved in from South Carolina to the Nolichucky river section, kissed his wife and children good-by and did likewise. Over at Wolf Hills, William Campbell assembled his men and at Sapling Grove in Virginia, Isaac Shelby sent out the call. From here and the Carolinas the wilderness men came forth. They met a thousand strong and the Rev. Samuel Doak, grim pioneer preacher, sent them on their way from the white waters of Sycamore Shoals with a mighty sermon and an injunction to unleash the terrible, swift sword of the Lord.

Moves to New Lands.

It is recorded that many of these men came from the stock that flourished in the upper valley of that vast old Virginia that once stretched to the Great Lakes and the Mississippi. There was John Sevier, for instance.

He came from the Fort Lewis country, where he had established the town of New Market, had given land to the Baptists to build a church and then had moved on to new lands, destined, like Ulysses, to seek a newer world and "sail beyond the sunset and the baths of all the western stars" until he died in what now are the hills of Tennessee.

Sevier came from a French Huguenot family that is said to have changed its name from the family name of St. Francis Xavier. After Kings Mountain he returned to found the short-lived state of Franklin and to become six times governor of the new state of Tennesse.

Decides to Raise Rents.

Campbll, too, came from this seed bed of American civilization and colonization, which had been planted by one John Lewis. And Lewis, who produced four sons who became leaders of the Revolution and western settlers, had come from County Donegal in Ireland. His story is an epic in itself. His was a voice that sounds as remote as that of the eloquent peasant of the Nile, who first cried out the wrongs of the common man, when man was but a unit of a state, long ago when America was still in the womb of time.

Lewis' third son, Andrew, who was to become a major in the American revolution and a Holston pioneer, had just been born in Ireland when the old lord from whom he had a freehold lease died and the profligate Sir Mungo Campbell succeeded to the estate. The young lord decided to raise rents or drive his tenants out. Lewis would not take the word of the steward for this and one evening brushed by the servants and confronted his master with his wrongs.

"Sir," he said to the young lord, who was making merry with his companions in wine and song, "I wish to learn from your own lips whether you really meditate such injustice, such cruelty as the terms mentioned by your agent indicate. I beg you to reconsider this matter carefully or you will ruin me and disgrace yourself. I have a wife and three infant children whose comfort and support depend upon the enjoyment of this property, and yet I am told I can no longer hold it without a base surrender of my rights to your rapacity."

"Leave me, leave me, you rebel and villain!" shouted the drunken lord.

Kill Lewis' Brother-in-Law.

The next day the young lord and his companions decided to drive Lewis out of his home. They descended upon the place with guns and fired through an aperture, killed the brother-in-law of Lewis, who was ill in bed, and wounding his wife in the hand. Lewis rushed forth with a shillelah and struck right and left killing the lord and his steward and causing the others to flee from his wrath. Lewis decamped for America that night by way of Portugal. He landed on the Delaware months later and made his way to the wilderness of Pennsylvania and later to the valley of Virginia where his wife and children later found him. His home was to be one of the cells from which the new republic of human rights arose. His sons commanded in the French and Indian wars as well as in the revolution.

Here, also, were nurtured Isaac Shelby, who became the first governor of Kentucky; Sam Houston who was to rise to fame in far away unborn Texas; John C. Breckenridge, Thomas H. Benton, Gen. Wade Hampton, Gen. Joseph E. Johnston. From this stock lower down the valley came Col. Daniel Morgan of the Continental army and Col. William Crawford. Of this race were Stonewall Jackson and J. E. B. Stuart, who rode on the right hand and on the left "of that gentlest and greatest of the cavaliers, Robert E. Lee."

Further down in this region one Andrew Jackson was born. This was the Waxhaw settlement. One of his brothers was killed in the British invasion and it is related that Andrew and his brother Robert were taken prisoners and ordered to blacken the boots of the British officers. When they refused they were beaten and imprisoned and Robert died of his wounds. Andrew carried the scars all his life, a fact which may have had a good deal to do with the rise of the western democracy.

It was not so much great names, however, and leaders that counted in these days as it was the capacity of each man to think and perform for himself, the formation of American individualism. And with this the sense of religious guidance. It is recorded of Samuel Houston, also born in Rockbridge county, Virginia, that he attended Liberty academy, now Washington and Lee university; that he entered the ministry and helped to farm the presbytery at Abingdon, old Wolf Hills; that he "was a soldier of the revolution and faithful minister of the Lord Jesus Christ." It was to be long, however, before the New Testament idea of love was to take the place of the Old Testament of wrath.

March to Meet Ferguson.

These forces, then, a sort of spiritual rebirth in the history of humanity, coupled with a physical vigor as hard as nails and a courage beyond words, gathered where the Watauga flows today as sweetly as ever and marched swiftly over the hills to meet Ferguson on Oct. 7, 1780. Ferguson did not know what had been unleashed upon him, these stalwart, hardy riflemen that converged from all directions to hem him in on his hilltop fortress.

He was surprised and when he attacked the forces seemed to melt away into the forest clad hillside. But they assembled again and again and came on forever. Ferguson became frantic, rallying his men with a silver whistle, dashing about bravely but uselessly.

Down in the hollow Sevier's men were crouched. The word went around the mountain that Ferguson had on a checked hunting shirt and that was the mark they were to look for.

Finally as Ferguson strove to break through the Sevier lines, Robert Young got a bead on the checked shirt with "Sweetlips" and the gallant commander fell. His horse dragged him head down through the bushes and when picked up he was dead. His second in command surrendered. When Cornwallis, waiting in Charlotte for the news of victory heard of this, he was shocked.

"This is a damned hornet's nest. Let's get out of here," he said to his officers.

And so that is why the Charlotte city seal has a hornet's nest on it today. And that is one reason why America is here today. And that is one stratum of American character that still has to be reckoned with in both internal and external policies of government.

[The fourth article of this series will tell of the new industrial belt in the old valley of Virginia, the story of the Moravians, and something of Washington and Lee university.]

King's Mountain Battle Scene

(Story in adjoining column.)

Scene of King's Mountain battle during Revolutionary war, in which British defenders of the peak were captured or killed, and their leader, Col. Patrick Ferguson, slain by American mountaineers on Oct. 7, 1780. The leaders of the American fighting units that encircled and climbed the mountain are named in the captions and the cross, indicated by an arrow, shows where Ferguson met his death.

Negro Bandit Injures Two in Tavern; Beaten by Crowd

Granite City, Ill., Jan. 15.—(AP)—An armed Negro held up a tavern here today, shot and seriously wounded one of sixty patrons and injured another, but was beaten almost into unconsciousness by the customers. John Tappel, chief of police, identified the Negro as Horace Allen, 26 years old, of East St. Louis. Manuel Jones, 38 years old, was shot in the neck when he attempted to resist the Negro.

ALTERNATIVE INFLATION PLAN.

To the profusion of administrations, boards, commissions, and public corporations a new governmental agency was recently added. The name given to the new unit is the special monetary board. Its members are the secretary of the treasury, the chairman of the federal reserve board, the chairman of the national resources committee, and the director of the budget. Its function is to "develop sound policies for orderly recovery so as to flatten out the economic peaks and valleys."

One of the members of the new committee, Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, has set forth his ideas for making plateaus out of peaks and valleys. He'd work it through the deficit. Mr. Eccles has stated that the important cause of the collapse of business in 1937, followed by recession in 1938, was the cutting down of the deficit. How the deficit was reduced, we all should remember. Spending was sustained, but income also increased. The extra income was from several sources. The social security taxes added 600 million dollars. And the raising of the income taxes, combined with better business in 1936, increased the revenue of the government by nearly 2 billion dollars in 1937. The collection of these additional taxes, according to Mr. Eccles, reduced the spending money of the people by that amount. This, according to his reasoning, reduced the amount of goods which could be bought and turned the business curve downward.

Mr. Eccles would increase the expenditures of the government in periods of declining business, to check the decline, and then he would hold them up in good times, lest a diminution would check the upturn. Thus it would seem to be necessary to increase expenditures in times of reviving business, so as to make the rising revenues keep their distance, and then to increase them some more in hard times to take care of the increased needs for relief.

This business of increasing the expenditures when business is declining and not reducing them when business is advancing would be carried along, according to the Eccles plan, until the national income had reached 88 billions. That would be 10 per cent greater than in 1929. The national income of Great Britain is 10 per cent more than in 1929. Hence, Mr. Eccles believes that the pump should be primed until we did as well. Mr. Eccles figures that at such a time the tax receipts will amount to 18 billions, and this will take care of the expenditures and leave something to spare.

We would suggest an alternative to an ever increasing scale of expenditures. If the amount of the deficit is the important item a reduction in taxes would accomplish the desired purpose as well as an increase in expenditures. And increasing the deficit by reducing taxes would give an incentive to capital investment, whereas accomplishing that result by increasing expenditures would not. If we must have inflation, Mr. Eccles, we'd rather have you do it by collecting less rather than by spending more.

CONFESSIONS OF THE NEW DEAL.

It's really too bad that there was not a greater shift of New Deal place holders and consequently were not more nominations to be confirmed by the senate. Inquiries into the fitness of appointees being shunted from one job to another have furnished interesting and illuminating confessions. Mr. Hopkins, late of WPA, and Mr. Murphy, late governor of Michigan, endeavoring to show their qualifications for, respectively, the department of commerce and the department of justice, have candidly admitted the truth of criticisms made against their conduct in the offices they had held.

Mr. Murphy contributes the idea that the sit-down strike was illegal. That point of view did not prevail in Washington or in the New Deal states at the time the strikes were creating the gravest disorders the country has seen of late, and also the most serious problem of law enforcement.

At the time the various federal departments encouraged seizure of property patterned after the communist seizure of power, and Mr. Murphy, of course, supported it with the armed forces of the state. It is hardly necessary to remind many readers that Mme. Perkins of the department of labor gave an armchair opinion which amounted to a legal blessing on the violent occupation of plants, and that Mr. Farley's postoffice department made a distinction between persons legally occupying a factory and therein besieged and persons who had seized one in violation of law.

Deliveries of parcel post packages containing medicines, food, and articles for the comfort of the illegally besieged persons in legally held plants were refused. The refusal was made official by definite announcement of postoffice policy. Mail trucks were stopped, railroad tracks were blocked, and train service stopped. Neither the postoffice nor the department of justice undertook to prevent this interference with the mails and with interstate commerce.

The sitdown strike marked the greatest advance the communists had made in American history, and its resemblance to the Red seizure of power in Russia was almost complete. Mr. Murphy's explanation of his support of this communist maneuver has been and is that he was seeking a peaceable solution without loss of life. The inference is that an assertion of state authority in support of law must be attended by loss of life. Therefore the state is robbed of authority and lawlessness has its way. When men are to be restrained from violent disorders and from the obstruction of peaceable governmental functions injuries will be inflicted only if lawlessness is carried to the extent of attacking the law officers.

The state cannot confess its complete helplessness when its authority is defied in force. The truth is that the sitdown strike was not regarded as lawless by the New Deal. It was considered a legal means of forcing employers to surrender, regardless of the merits of any issue. The New Deal was communistic enough to recognize seizure of key positions as a truly revolutionary tactic. Mr. Murphy's concession that the procedure was illegal and that he didn't like it is made because he now feels that the support of the violent maneuver might easily seem to make his appointment to the department of justice almost grotesque. Moreover, the people of industrial states have given their own verdict on it and hence the New Deal confession of error.

Mr. Hopkins also has been helpful in his avowals and confessions regarding the political use of the relief appropriations. Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Williams, his assistant, have been removed from this hot spot, although Mr. Williams has been transferred to the National Youth administration, where his mischief making may continue with even greater effectiveness. Mr Hopkins is headed for comparatively still waters and he is willing to satisfy the senators by admitting culpability in the administration of relief. His confessions have the virtue of clearing the record and of taking the scandal out of the field of partisan controversy.

It is conceded that a gross injustice was done and that the truly good were unconscionable in their use of the public money and their dragooning of the destitute voters on the WPA pay rolls. If there had been more appointments shifting a number of responsible New Dealers from one place to another there might have been even greater public benefits—Mr. Farley, for instance, from the postoffice to the navy department, Mme. Perkins to the war department, Mr. Madden of the National Labor Relations board to TVA, and Mr. Lilienthal of TVA to, say, the department of labor. The yern for confirmation might have produced in these officials as great a desire to be frank as it did in Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Murphy.

THE ALIMONY RACKET.

The Illinois assembly has put to its credit in the last four years some important corrections of the faulty marriage laws of the state and shown a commendable realization of the social evils and individual injustices in this important field of public policy. The so-called heart balm suits have been abolished. They had been a flagrant means of blackmail and public scandal. The notorious evil of gin weddings has been corrected by requiring notice and delay in the issuance of licenses, and only the failure of adjoining states to enact similar measures has retarded and limited the great benefits which flow and will continue to flow from this legislation. Still another enactment of great importance is the law requiring venereal tests as prerequisites for the issuance of marriage licenses. The full advantage of this legislation has been postponed by the failure of neighboring states to enact similar laws, but it is to be hoped this situation will soon be corrected by enlightened public opinion in these states.

Attempts in 1935 and 1937 to deal with the alimony and separation racket encountered objections in the courts and from the executive, but the public will be glad to learn that they will be renewed in the present session. Leaders in both houses who pressed successfully for amendatory action in 1935 and 1937 are ready to take up the fight again and they will have strong support from the press and public. Alimony and separate maintenance have been for years a recourse of unscrupulous women and their lawyers and while conscientious judges have attempted to mitigate the scandal too many judges have not. The legislation proposed has not disregarded the interests of children or of mothers rightfully claiming aid, but it should largely reduce unjust exploitation and the abuse of the marriage bond.

Editorial of the Day

A BOASTFUL REACTIONARY.

[Minneapolis Tribune.]

People do not always agree on their definitions of terms commonly used in politics today—"liberal," "conservative" and "reactionary," for instance. But Channing Pollock, the American playwright and author, has just been having a bit of fun in calling himself a reactionary and proving why he's proud of it. In a recent talk at the University of Cincinnati he deplored the trend against democracy. If going back to the course of government and affairs of twenty-five years ago means being a "reactionary," then that's the label Mr. Pollock wants, he told his audience.

The playwright cited recent history to show that we were a pretty happy people up to the world war and for some time after that. "To begin with," he recalled, "in 1914 the world had not known a major war since 1871 nor a general war since 1815. We had not arrived at the high civilization in which whole populations were provided with bomb shelters and trained to use gas masks." The losses under dictatorship today were then traced, preceding an extended portion of the address devoted to the relief problem and the dependence upon governmental largesse which has been bred in the course of recent years.

Mr. Pollock used ancient history almost with zestful glee in proving that "new deal" ideas were really centuries old. "We are not making history," Mr. Pollock thundered, "we are merely repeating it. The father of regimentation was a Babylonian monarch 2,200 years B. C.; you will find the first wages and hours bill in Hamurabi's code. Servius Tullius made a small portion of the Roman population pay all the taxes, Augustus distributed largesse as a means of ingratiating himself with the mob, and Diocletian and Constantine tinkered with the currency, fixed prices, and tried to regulate production. I'm a red shirt tailed radical compared with our rulers—I merely want to cling to what was good twenty-five years ago; they want to revive what was bad in the dark ages!"

The playwright contends that we've had enough of "forward marching into the blackest pages of history." Legislatures and dictators alike have placed too much faith in governmental decrees, Mr. Pollock argues. A strongly serious note tinges his satirically humorous claim that he is a reactionary, crying: "Let's go back to the path that leads ahead."

RIP VAN WINKLE ON A BUS.

We were in the front seat of the upper deck of a bus, and there was a long, long trail a-winding out to Howard street. A large and dignified old gentleman joined us, and began to mutter over his pipe stem: "Chicago is beautiful; Chicago is beautiful." So we talked.

He had left this city in 1912 to seek the sun kissed blessings of southern California. This was his first trip back. He was staggered by the changes.

"And the bus fare is so cheap!"—We replied that we had a high respect for a dime, but he snorted back:

"How much do you think this ride to 5200 north would cost me in Los Angeles?—Thirty cents!"

A Prophecy for 1942.

The paragraphs that this column has been publishing on the subject of Augustus N. Dickens, brother of the novelist, and his residence in Chicago form an original contribution to Dickensian lore. About four years hence some scholar, writing a book or preparing a dissertation for the doctorate, will come around asking us to dig these pieces out of the files for his benefit.

THE LINEMASTER'S DOG.

What kind of a dog is the Linemaster's dog?
A Boston, perhaps, who may quietly jog
Along by his side when he takes his long walks;
With eyes growing soulful whenever he talks.

Or is he a Scotty who scampers about
And puts all the squirrels and pigeons to rout,
Persistently fetching a big clumsy stick
That some one must throw and he brings back too quick?

Or may be a collie, all golden and white,
That dog lovers pet to his master's delight;
Or even a spitz, temper'mental and shy,

Like neckties of red that most women dread;

Museum Piece in American Humor.

My dad had the best sea-diving dog you ever heard tell of. Once a city slicker spoke his doubt. A wager was made; the slicker, dad, and the dog went out in a rowboat. Dad tossed a half dollar piece into the lake. The dog dived in, not even waiting for dad's command.

"He'll be up with that half buck in no time," said dad.

They waited till dusk, but no sign of that sea-diving dog.

"He's going to Davy Jones' locker," the slicker chortled.

Not downhearted, dad said, "I'll meet you at the pier in the morning. If no news then, I will pay off."

Bright and early dad and the slicker met at the pier. And, doggone, who was there waiting for them but the dog, a pickerel spanning his mouth.

"I don't know how he popped up," said the slicker, "but the bet stands; all he's got is a fish."

"I can understand that," says dad, "the pickerel swallowed the half dollar. We'll open up the pickerel," says dad.

They did, and you know what they found? A two star final TRIBUNE and 48 cents in change!

SONNET TO A BOOK LOVER.

When circumstance denies me sight of thee
I sometimes wish I were a book, that all
The gleanings of my heart and mind might be
Therein compressed to wait thy fancy's call;
A little book, that might not tire thy hand
If aught within beguiled thy thought too long;
A magic book, that at thy need's command
Might soothe thy grief or add cheer to thy song.
I would that in my pages could be found
A kindly counsel for your every care;
I would that happiness for you were bound
In me, for then thy joy I too might share.
The love of books is so instinct in thee
If I were one, perchance you might love me.

Shopping with a Smile.

A friend who accompanied me on a shopping tour through many departments of a loop store remarked:

"You are the most fortunate person I've ever seen. Every salesperson you've contacted has fairly broken his neck to be nice to you. I always get such crabby ones."

My reply could have been: "Darling, you are telling me nothing about salespeople, but you are exposing volumes about yourself." A. E. F.

PIPE DOWN, BIG BOY!

When you
Rave and rant
On politics,
My mind is miles away!
And when you shout
Of taxes
I don't hear a word
You say.
Bellow, scream, and
Storm about depression!
I shan't hear!
But whisper that you love me
And I shall listen, dear.

A VICTORY OVER PAIN—ANESTHETICS.

THE words "anesthesia" and "anesthetic," coined by our physician-poet, Oliver Wendell Holmes, are world-wide in acceptance and the discovery of the first soporific for surgical purposes falls to the credit of America. Although Crawford W. Long of Georgia used ether to produce insensibility to pain during minor operations, it remained for Morton, a dentist, to demonstrate publicly the powerful effects of this drug.

Before a group of physicians in the Massachusetts General hospital on that memorable October day in 1846—with doubts and fears assailing the minds and hearts of the surgeons and the audience who watched with bated breath—Morton administered the vapor of ether to Gilbert Abbott. John Collins Warren then proceeded with the incision removing a sizable tumor from the neck. The patient felt no distress and recovery was uneventful. A few days later Holmes wrote, "The fierce extremity of suffering has been steeped in the waters of forgetfulness, and the deepest furrow in the knotted brow of agony has been smoothed forever."

But no great scientific advance belongs to any individual. Some one supplies the last link in the chain or sets the final stone in the wall, for every new development rests upon a foundation of research covering, perhaps, several centuries. The story of nitrous oxide presents a case in point. Working in a laboratory in Bristol in 1799 Humphrey Davy, a 20 year old youth, observed that the inhalation of nitrous oxide was followed by loss of sensation. But it could not be used with safety to produce unconsciousness because within a brief period the patient would suffocate for lack of oxygen.

It remained for Edmund Andrews, an eminent Chicago surgeon, to demonstrate in 1868 that the gas could be combined with oxygen and thus form a perfect mixture. Strangely enough this suggestion, although published with adequate proof, fell on deaf ears. Forty years elapsed before it was seized upon as the method of choice. Hundreds of thousands of persons have submitted to its beneficent influence.

Because a gas is so much easier and safer than a liquid, which must be vaporized, the popularity of this combination was shared when Arno B. Luckhardt of Chicago promulgated the superior properties of ethylene, which is today probably our most valuable and most commonly used compound. It is relatively inexpensive and far more powerful than nitrous oxide oxygen. This and cyclopropane, still another gas, now hold the field. The first clinical application of this latter drug was made by R. M. Waters of Wisconsin in 1930. It is particularly helpful with patients suffering from thyroid disease, the anemias, heart ailments, and in those requiring lung surgery. In other words, it is an excellent chemical wherever a high percentage of oxygen is desirable.

Long has been the search for the ideal preparation which can be taken by mouth or injected into the circulation. Centuries ago the only remedies available were opium, hasheesh, and mandragora. Nowadays, among the substances that may be utilized for the purpose of producing local or general insensibility, are certain derivatives of cocaine, such as novocaine, and numerous barbituric acid compounds, including sodium amytal, numbutal, etc. There is some possible disadvantage with the latter group because the patient may not regain consciousness for from twelve to seventy-two hours and great care must be exercised in determining the dose. Tri-brom-ethyl alcohol [avertin] may be given to the patient in his room. He is then oblivious to all events—including the round trip to the operating suite. This avoids apprehension and nervous shock. Longer experience will no doubt widen its use.

When all is said and done, safety is our chief concern and deaths after any one of these agents—in skilled hands—are almost unheard of. But the manner in which the gas is handled is 90 per cent of the battle and highly trained experts in this field are as essential as are competent surgeons. In the modern hospital as great precautions are exercised in this respect as in any other procedure where life hangs in the balance.

USE OF SACCHARIN.

F. B. G. writes: What is saccharin derived from? Is its use for sweetening foods harmful? What is the maximum daily limit?

REPLY.

Saccharin is a coal tar product—a derivative of benzoic acid. It is approximately 280 times as sweet as cane sugar and is used for sweetening purposes by those afflicted with diabetes. In small doses [¼-1 grain daily] it is rarely harmful. Its long continued use is not advised as occasionally some injury to the white cells of the blood ensues.

PLEURAL ADHESIONS.

Mrs. G. writes: An X-ray of the chest of a young woman indicates adhesions in the left lung. What is the cause of this and what should be done about it?

REPLY.

Adhesions are the result of previous inflammation which has caused two surfaces to become glued together. Pleural adhesions are the result of some irritation of the pleura—more commonly tuberculosis. Unless the process is active the patient need have no concern.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN.—A greater Dublin is envisaged by the report of a tribunal appointed some time ago to make recommendations as to the feasibility of extending the boundaries of the city. The tribunal was asked to define what territory it considered desirable to take in and what arrangements it would suggest for the local administration under the new conditions.

In brief, the tribunal has recommended annexation of the entire county of Dublin and has outlined a comprehensive scheme for the management of the new area under a group to be called the Dublin Metropolitan corporation. When carried into effect, as there appears to be no doubt that it will, the proposed scheme will effect big changes in the position of the city, and at the same time will increase the responsibilities of ratepayers in the annexed area.

The population of the city will be increased from 467,691 to 562,457, and the ratable valuation increased to $13,500,000. Dwellers in the rural areas naturally will object to the inevitable increase in service rates, but this probably will be met by deferring the imposition of full city rates until such time as the full scheme has been put in operation. Water and sewerage works are yet to be constructed.

The problem of increased population is of immediate concern. As it stands, Dublin's population is almost one-fifth of Ireland's total, and it is growing steadily. One notable authority recently expressed alarm at the possibility of Dublin reaching the million mark within the present century. That would mean that the capital city would have to house no less than one-third of the country's population. Such a prospect filled him with horror, because it would mean that the slum problem would become a perennial one, and also because it would mean the continued denudation of the countryside.

It has to be remembered that while Dublin and other cities are increasing in population, the rural areas are steadily decreasing. This, in the opinion of national authorities, would mean that Irish civilization as it exists would disappear and because of the influence of radio and cheap travel nothing would be left but English and American city civilization. This was the view expressed by Senator Michael Tierney, one of the most learned members of the second house of the legislature. "If," said the senator, "the present brand continues for another fifty years the thing is accomplished. Our civilization must be a rural civilization, as it always has been, or else nothing that we can call our own. The typical Irishman no longer will be the farmer but the towney."

Senator Tierney said: "We ought to devise plans to prevent Dublin from growing any more, instead of planning to house additional population. We should seriously consider the removal of the seat of government, with all its attendant attractions, to some smaller and less dangerous center, as well as the rusticating of our universities and similar institutions. There would be one benefit from this, in the event of an outbreak of war, which, if we had sound defense plans, would lead to the evacuation or partial evacuation of the city of Dublin. Either we curb the growth of Dublin or we throw up the sponge as a race with pretensions to any kind of native culture, traditions or ideals."

These views have attracted wide attention. In Ireland the rural population is steadily falling in numbers and the indications are that this trend will continue. The "idiocy of rural life" was preached by Marx and Engels. The idea has already deeply sunk into the Irish countryside. The farmstead no longer is the ideal homestead.

MORTGAGE OBLIGATION.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I owned an old house free and clear of a mortgage. A builder of new homes accepted my old home as part payment on one of his new homes. In the transaction, however, he placed a mortgage on the old house in my name so that he could immediately obtain the cash involved in the mortgage. I also deeded the old home to him at the same time, and have the old home mentioned in the new house contract as a cash credit.

1. In the event this old house is sold to another person by my builder with the same mortgage in effect, would I be liable if this person defaulted on the mortgage payment?

2. How can I protect myself from any default or trouble on the old property from this original mortgage in my name?

3. Does the deed and the fact that the builder mentions clearly in my new house contract that he accepts the old house as a cash consideration in the deal free me from responsibility on the old mortgage in my name?

4. Could the mortgage people be notified officially so as to clear me?

5. Although the builder and mortgage holder are working together in this deal, doesn't it seem likely that as soon as they obtain a buyer for the old property a new mortgage will undoubtedly be made in the new buyer's name, so that they can collect the additional fees involved in this transaction?

6. A deal under [5] would completely free me from the old mortgage, I believe.

K. S.

1. In general, a person who has signed mortgage notes can be held to personal liability on those notes.

2. We suggest that you go over your papers in a personal interview with an attorney.

3. No.

4. It is not clear whom you mean by the mortgage people. It seems probable that the mortgage was so worded as to be negotiable, which would mean that it could be transferred in such a way as to cut off any personal defenses that you might have.

5. The new papers are probable but not certain.

6. If your old mortgage is canceled and released, then you would no longer be liable. You might be released by other steps on account of the principles of suretyship.

COLLECTION BY JUDGMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1931 "A" got judgment against me for $160. I was served with execution at that time and filed a schedule on personal property. In 1932 "A" sold the judgment to another party. In 1937 I filed a petition for bankruptcy.

1. This claim was included. A few days ago I was served with another execution in the name of "A."

2. Do I have to file a schedule at this time?

E. J.

1. We are not in a position to pass upon the question as to whether the claim was properly included, so as to be barred. We will assume that it was barred.

2. In general, debtors are no longer required to file schedules, but if the creditor is threatening to levy on your assets it might be worth while to employ an attorney to present your bankruptcy defense. As a preliminary, you might talk with the creditor and learn whether he knows of the bankruptcy defense.

ALL ACCORDING TO PLAN.

New York, Jan. 10.—President Roosevelt's address before congress on the state of the nation has relieved me considerably.

To one who has worried as much as I have about where the politicians were taking us it is soothing to find that all the things which the administration has done during the last six years have been done intentionally to prepare us for war with dictator countries. "Never," says the President, "have there been six years of such far flung internal preparedness in our history."

But his remarks are soothing only in that they have replaced my former worries with a brand new set, the chief of which is whether I have suddenly gone cockeyed.

Can it be possible that the wasteful spending of public funds [resulting in the greatest national debt of any nation in any age] has been for the purpose of putting our financial house in order and make us ready to finance huge purchases of war materials?

Have the organized attacks on business, the ham stringing, harassing, persecution of industry, been aimed to induce expansion and modernization of facilities in preparation of war?

Has the class hatred which has been created under and by this administration, the encouragement of sitdown strikes, the name-calling, the prejudice and suspicion against thrift and honest endeavor all been for the noble purpose of internal preparedness?

Is Mme. Perkins' refusal to deport aliens, who are definitly here to wreck our American system in favor of communism or Fascism, intended to assure national unity in case of war?

Has the planned economy we have witnessed in peace time—the killing of millions of pigs and plowing under of wheat when many people were starving; the attempt to raise prices on everything we buy when what each and every one of us want is more for our dollar, not less—have these and all the rest of the weird programs of the burocrats been a dress rehersal for government planning in a war emergency?

Have the 4,000,000 foreigners not naturalized in America been encouraged to remain here, in the face of our great unemployment problem, in the belief that they will make good soldiers—for the United States—in time of war?

I'm just asking the questions to test my own sanity. FRED G. CLARK.

GOV. HEIL'S ADDRESS.

OSCAR EVERTS.

KALININ'S RANK.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—You are perfectly right in ridiculing President Roosevelt for his congratulatory message to "Mikhail Kalinin, chairman of the all union central executive committee of Russia," but you should have added that President Roosevelt and his advisers have a very poor knowledge of the soviet political organization.

The soviet constitution adopted on Dec. 5, 1936, has abolished the all-union central executive committee and the chairmanship as well. Instead a "supreme council" [equivalent to the United States congress] with two chambers is introduced; it elects a "presidium of the supreme council," consisting of a chairman of the presidium and eleven vice chairmen. To this position of the "chairman of the presidium of the supreme council of the U. S. S. R." was elected Mikhail Kalinin, but this does not exalt him to the position of a president in a republic of the western European type. President Roosevelt has applied a wrong, now abolished and obsolete title with reference to Mikhail Kalinin when sending him his cable.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Have all radio broadcasts prefixed their programs with a safety slogan such as "Attention, auto mobile drivers; safety first—drive carefully." I am sure that if this were done constantly by all stations the result would be very favorable. J. B. M.

THE "T" IS SILENT.

HORLICK HEIRESS WILL CONTEST TO OPEN TOMORROW

Trial Expected to Reveal Mrs. Sidley's Life.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Racine, Wis., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Trial of William Horlick Sidley's suit contesting the will of his mother, Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, will be started in Judge J. Allen Simpson's County court here Tuesday morning. Sidley is fighting the will, which would compel him to share the estate with W. Perkins Bull, a Toronto lawyer, and with various charities.

Sidley's action to void the will and validate a previous will under which he is the principal beneficiary is based upon his contention that his mother was not sound of mind last April when she signed the will and that she was coerced by Bull. She lived in Bull's home for eighteen months prior to her death last July 6.

Testimony is expected to reveal the truth about many circumstances which have caused speculation since the death of Mrs. Sidley. Many witnesses have been called and at least thirty depositions will be read into the court records during the trial.

Size of Estate Is Question.

The size of Mrs. Sidley's estate also is a vital question. Previous estimates put its value at 3 to 10 million dollars, but Barnard Magruder, one of the executors of her will, said it may now be less than a million due in part to huge unexplained withdrawals by Mrs. Sidley.

Under terms of the will Sidley, who is 27 years old, and Bull each were to receive $250,000 in cash. After other specific bequests were paid, young Sidley and Bull each were to receive one-third of the remainder. The other third was to go to charities and St. John's Military academy at Delafield, Wis.

Sidley will be represented by four law firms. The executors and beneficiaries who are fighting to have the will upheld will be represented by five firms.

Backed by One Uncle.

Executors in addition to Magruder are William Horlick, brother of Mrs. Sidley; Miss Andrea Pultz, an employé of the Horlick Malted Milk company, major source of the fortune; Col. Roy Ferrand, headmaster of St. John's, and young Sidley. Alexander J. Horlick, another brother of Mrs. Sidley, is supporting his nephew's fight.

Sidley's attempt to have an inquest into the death of his mother conducted in Toronto was stopped by a court order. He told Toronto officials he was not satisfied with explanations of the death of his mother in Bull's home.

Bull is not expected to come to Racine for the trial, but his three sons will be here. All are said to have benefited through Mrs. Sidley's gifts. The sons are Michael Bull, W. Perkins Bull Jr., for whom a $200,000 trust was set up, and Bartle Bull, whose wife is the former Rosemary Baur of Chicago.

Woman Stage Veteran Dies in Leap from Hotel

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Miss Ollie Alice Cameron, 63 years old, a veteran of the stage, donned a frayed blue house dress today and leaped to her death from the roof of a four story hotel. Friends said she had been despondent since a relapse from a major operation. Miss Cameron scored her first triumph in a musical comedy 43 years ago and later appeared with the J. C. Duff Opera company as a soprano before managing her own company in Quebec. She recently had enacted rôles in a WPA federal theater project here.

A. S. Dellefield, Retired Real Estate Man, Dies

Albert S. Dellefield, retired real estate executive of New York and Chicago, died last night in his home at 5760 Blackstone avenue after a long illness. He was 46 years old. Mr. Dellefield began his career as a musician. He then became a writer and finally a real estate operator. He is survived by his widow, Sadie, and a son, Calvin. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 936 East 47th street. Burial will be at Emanuel cemetery, Waldheim.

D. C. Hart, Former Maitre d'Hotel, Dies at Age of 82

Dennis C. Hart, once a well known maitre d'hotel in Chicago, died of a heart attack yesterday in the County hospital. He was 82 years old, and the oldest member of the Chicago Waiters' association. Friends said that Hart had been maitre, in former years, at the Chicago Yacht club, the South Shore Country club, and the old Chicago Yacht club. Hart lived at 615 North Wells street. He was born in Ithaca, N. Y., and had lived in Chicago for sixty-five years.

American Freed Unharmed by Kidnapers in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The United States consulate learned today that Milo Webb, an American citizen, had been released unharmed by kidnapers who seized him near Guanajuato last Wednesday. The consulate said it had no further details concerning Webb's release. The American, a former resident of Phoenix, Ariz., is an engineer in the employ of the Amparo Mining company at its El Monte plant, near Guanajuato.

$8,841,000 IS ASKED FOR STATE FLOOD, NAVIGATION JOBS

Army Engineers Send Pleas to Congress.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The army engineers today recommended that congress give them $8,841,000 to spend on Illinois navigation and flood control projects in the next fiscal year, but the appropriation may be considerably less.

Maj. Gen. Julian L. Schley, chief of engineers, said in his annual report that this amount could be profitably expended on Illinois projects in the 12 months beginning next July 1.

The total comprised $4,423,000 for flood control, $3,072,000, for new navigation work on rivers and harbors, and $1,346,000 for maintenance of existing navigation improvements.

May Have to Cut Request

However, the engineers' recommendation that $402,993,910 be provided for such work throughout the country was met with the budget bureau's recommendation that congress appropriate $212,935,000, indicating the engineers might have to scale down their proposed allotments by about one-half unless congress overrides the budget bureau's proposals.

The largest recommendations in the engineers' report for individual projects in Illinois were $3,574,000 for the Illinois waterway, $540,000 for the Calumet harbor and river [both in Illinois and Indiana], and $2,000,000 for flood control at Mounds and Mound City.

Asks Channel Maintenance Fund.

For the Illinois waterway, linking Lake Michigan with the Mississippi river through the Chicago sanitary canal and Chicago, Des Plaines and Illinois rivers, Gen. Schley recommends $527,000 for channel maintenance, $425,000 for operation of locks and dams, and $2,627,000 for new work, divided as follows: Dredging above Starved Rock, $1,250,000; flowage and remedial works, $618,000; dredging below Starved Rock, $170,000; structures, plant and miscellaneous, $500,000; cofferdam for Tainter gates, $84,000. With expenditure of these amounts, Gen. Schley reported, the project would be approximately 93 per cent completed.

At Calumet, the engineers proposed to spend $440,000 for dredging the outer harbor in front of Carnegie-Illinois Steel company, and $100,000 for maintenance dredging of the river and turning basin.

Levee Work Planned.

The Mound City project calls for a floodwall, levee and diversion of the Cache river to protect the area north of Cairo, Ill.

In addition to projects entirely within Illinois, the engineers asked $12,944,000 for new navigation work on the Mississippi river from the Missouri river to Minneapolis, and $2,114,000 for maintenance of this portion of the inland waterways.

The work of providing a nine foot channel in the upper Mississippi was 81 per cent complete last June 30, Gen. Schley reported, and construction of dams at Clinton and Le Claire, Ia.; New Boston, Ill.; and Saverton, Clarksville, and Cap au Gris, Mo., would be completed this year, "making the improved channel fully available for commerce and navigation."

Heat Wave in Australia Broken; Count 100 Dead

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 15.—(AP)—A heat wave that caused an estimated 100 deaths in New South Wales—mostly aged people and children—was checked today by cooler weather. With the temperature touching 113 degrees Saturday, hundreds of people collapsed in the streets and many were taken to hospitals.

REDS CRITICIZE BOAT TRANSPORT CHIEF'S LAXITY

MOSCOW, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Pravda, communist party organ, published today a sharp criticism of the work of the commissariat of water transportation, which is headed by Nikolai Yezhov. The newspaper asserted that during 1938 "the state lost 400 million rubles [$79,051,383 at the official Russian exchange rate] through unsatisfactory work of water transport."

It said that some executives failed to do anything against loafers even after the decision of the council of people's commissars to tighten labor discipline vigorously. It cited as an example that the chief of the port of Mahachkala [on the Caspian sea], the secretary of the communist party committee and the vice manager of the political section, "called a conference of loafers and floaters," some of whom "were so drunk they had to be carried away."

[A decree issued on Dec. 28 aimed especially at "floaters" and habitual absentees, tightened discipline imposed on workers in both offices and factories.]

CRACK ZOUAVES, MARVELS OF '93, TO MEET AGAIN

Veterans of the Chicago Zouaves, now staid business men, public officials, or retired merchants, but once the drill champions of the United States, will hold a reunion tomorrow night in Ireland's Oyster House, 636 North Clark street.

Modeled after a famous civil war regiment, the Zouaves were formed in 1882 by Capt. Thomas J. Ford, former drill master of the police department. The team, which later became part of the Illinois National Guard, held the national championship thirteen years.

During the World's Fair of 1893 the Zouaves were dashing figures as their gay scarlet pantaloons whirled in dashing drills and maneuvers. The unit passed out of existence in 1904 but the association was continued as a veterans' corps.

LEWIS N. SMITH RITES TOMORROW; MASON SINCE 1864

Funeral services for Lewis Noyes Smith, one of the oldest members of the Masonic order, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 629 Belmont avenue. Mr. Smith, who was 96 years old, died Thursday in his home, 211 West Ontario street. Mr. Smith, a native of New Hampshire, became well known in Chicago Masonic circles following his retirement from the mining business in the west twenty-one years ago. He joined the order in Minnesota in 1864. Six daughters and a brother survive. Masonic services will be conducted by the Hesperia lodge. Burial will be in Acacia Park cemetery.

IF YOUR MONEY GOES UP A FLUE, HEARKEN TO CITY

Smoke Bureau Tells How to Save That Fuel.

Does your fuel bill give you a headache? Are some of the rooms in your home uncomfortably chilly on cold days? Have you gotten into trouble with the city smoke department because your chimney is a nuisance to your neighbors?

It's your own fault, according to Frank A. Chambers, head of the smoke department. You can reduce fuel costs to a minimum and eliminate smoke any time you want to, he asserted yesterday.

All you have to do is observe a few simple rules for maintaining and operating your heating plant. And it makes no difference whether the plant is for a single family dwelling or a huge offic ebuilding; or whether it supplies only heat or generates power. The same rules apply.

Rule 1: Clean Out System!

"Clean the ash pit, grates, flues and other gas passages," Chambers advised. "Also clean out the chimney and the smoke pipe connecting the chimney with the heating plant. This will improve the draft and prevent smoke from backing out of the furnace into the basement where it can get into the upstairs rooms and soil the furnishings.

"Seal any leaks in the smoke pipe or install new sections wherever one has been burned through. Defective pipes are the cause of incomplete combustion [hence smoke] and sometimes result in fire where woodwork is exposed to flame from the furnace.

"Replace worn out sections of the grate. Missing sections cause 'holes' in the fire and a loss of heat. See that the grates shake properly and return to a level position. Cocked grates will burn and warp.

"Make sure that the damper will open and close properly and that all the furnace doors are tight. Fill any cracks with cement or stove putty. Air leakage causes the fire to draw poorly and increases the fuel consumption."

Soot Runs Coal Bill Up.

Chambers stressed the necessity for cleaning the soot out of the gas passages. Tests have shown, he said, that a quarter of an inch of soot on the tubes requires 50 per cent more coal for heating. The reason is that soot, a nonconductor of heat, acts as an insulating surface.

Savings to property owners resulting from coöperation with city smoke inspectors were pointed out in a letter made public yesterday. Dr. C. C. Miller, 50 East Elm street, wrote the letter to the smoke department after he calculated his 1938 fuel bill on an office building at 5600 Ridge avenue which he owns.

Inspectors visited the building last spring and on their advice Dr. Miller installed a new grate and ash pit door; had various air leaks sealed, and provided his janitor with a flue brush for cleaning the soot out of the boiler.

Fuel Consumption Cut in Half.

Then, according to his letter, he found that the plant burned twenty-two tons of coal from Sept. 1 to Dec. 31, compared with forty-five tons in the corresponding period in 1937—a reduction of more than 50 per cent.

"This is an example of the work being done by the smoke department in behalf of the citizens," Chambers said. "Last year the department made nearly 38,000 inspections. Many resulted in savings as great as Dr. Miller's. In addition the smoke nuisance throughout the city was further abated and the fees helped put the department on a paying basis."

The annual inspections, provided for in an amendment to the city smoke ordinance, are limited to all buildings except one and two family dwellings. The city council excluded the latter on the theory that the inspection fees would be a hardship on small property owners.

FAMILY ROUTS DEATH, POVERTY ALL IN A WEEK

Baby Boy Is Saved by New Treatment.

A red rubber monkey brought squeals of delight yesterday from Johnny DeVries, 13 months old. But the smiles of this blue eyed, yellow haired youngster were no wider than those of his parents, Garrett and Anna DeVries.

Johnny has recovered from a disease that almost always is fatal. He'll be able to leave the children's hospital division of County hospital within a week. Using a new treatment, his physicians have overcome pneumococcic meningitis.

Father Gets a Job.

At his home, 1804 West 13th street, Johnny will get his first glimpse of his new sister, who is 7 weeks old. And last week DeVries, who was on relief for seven months, got a job at the stockyards.

"What can I say?" smiled Mrs. DeVries yesterday. "We're just too rich for this world now."

Johnny was admitted to the hospital Dec. 6. He was suffering from a middle ear infection. This developed into mastoiditis and then pneumococcic meningitis appeared. This disease attacks the spinal cord, making the spine rigid.

Gets Four Blood Transfusions.

Aminopyridine sulfanilimide, a new form of the drug, was used in combination with anti-pneumonia serum in the treatment of Johnny's case. Dr. Mary Zeldas, resident pediatrician, was in charge. She was aided by Dr. Abraham Levinson, an authority on the disease. Johnny was given four blood transfusions.

"The recovery is indeed remarkable," said Dr. Albert Stein, chief resident physician. "It will go down in medical history."

Johnny didn't know about that. But the red rubber monkey his aunt brought him—that was an event!

Mrs. Farwell Winston Out of Hospital After Crash

Mrs. Farwell Winston, who was injured in an automobile accident in Lake Forest Saturday, was released from the Alice Home hospital yesterday. She will recuperate in her home at 955 East Spring lane, Lake Forest.

ELGIN HAS FIRST TRAFIC FATALITY IN OVER A YEAR

Victim, 74, Walks Into Side of Car.

Elgin's first trafic fatality in more than a year was recorded yesterday with the death of Nels P. Pearson, 74 years old. Saturday night he walked into the side of an automobile driven by James Martine, 1048 Foster avenue, Chicago. Pearson died of his injuries in St. Joseph's hospital.

An unidentified pedestrian was killed when he walked in front of an automobile at Deerpath and Skokie highway in Lake Forest. The driver was Robert Jensen, 7554 17th avenue, Kenosha, Wis.

Squatter Killed by Auto.

A man, known only as Shorty, was killed by an automobile in 103d street, east of Cottage Grove avenue, last night. The automobile driver was Joseph Prno, 25, of 308 West 106th street.

Mrs. Verbena Powell, 25 years old, colored, of 333 East 55th place, died in St. Luke's hospital of injuries suffered Jan. 4 in a taxicab-street car collision at 17th street and Wabash avenue. Her husband, Wendell Powell, 37, was fatally injured.

Ned Wallenberg, 57 years old, of 3612 North New England avenue, a WPA worker, was killed by an automobile driven by Fred N. Walker, 5716 Grace street, in front of 7145 Addison street.

Second Crash Victim Dies.

Mrs. Catherine Carey, 56 years old, 357 East 70th place, died in the Roseland Community hospital of injuries suffered Friday in an auto accident in which her husband, Patrick, was killed. Carey apparently suffered a heart attack while driving in Doty avenue near Kensington avenue. His car collided with that of Otto H. Dahlman, 1528 East 76th place. Dahlman was also injured.

Mrs. Rose Speyer, 61 years old, 831 Altgeld street, was fatally injured yesterday when she was struck by an automobile at Lincoln avenue and Altgeld street. The driver was Thomas Kostelecky, 2541 Seminary avenue.

Virginia Dalton, 8 years old, 1123 Monroe street, Evanston, was seriously injured last night when she was struck by an automobile after she had alighted from a bus in Ridge avenue, at Monroe street in the suburb. She suffered a possible skull fracture and was taken to St. Francis hospital. The driver of the car which struck her was Richard Brey, 16, of 1024 South boulevard, son of Detective Otto Brey of the Evanston police.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday sixty-one persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of this number forty-eight were killed within the city limits where 852 were injured in the same period.

PILOT "FREEZES" GASOLINE TO CURB DANGER OF FIRE

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Development of a method of cooling gasoline below the flash point to prevent fire hazard in airplanes was announced today by Assen Jordanoff, transport pilot and engineer.

The "frozen gasoline" is carried in the tanks at a temperature of 100 degrees below zero centigrade, which is maintained by a cooling system of dry ice and alcohol, and is heated to normal temperature as it passes into the motor.

The gasoline remains liquid but will not catch fire. Jordanoff demonstrated by applying a blow torch to a pailful of the gasoline. The liquid extinguished the torch flame. When the torch was held above the gasoline it required fourteen seconds for the gas to take fire, and then it burned slowly.

SHARECROPPERS FIGHT REMOVAL TO FARM HOMES

New Madrid, Mo., Jan. 15.—(AP)—State patrolmen proceeded today to clear from the highways of southeast Missouri demonstrating sharecroppers and their families who encamped there last Tuesday in a mass protest of working conditions.

More opposition to the patrol's orders to go back to former shanties was encountered thay yesterday when the moving was started on orders of Dr. Harry Parker, state health commissioner.

When state trucks drove up to a camp of 300 persons at Lilbourn, the farm workers refused to be taken to their former homes. Sherif A. S. Stanley of New Madrid county then ordered that they be moved to a nearby forty acre tract. One Negro was injured slightly when he attempted to draw a knife on an officer. Only one of thirteen major roadside camps remained tonight. Capt. A. D. Sheppard of the patrol said he hoped to have the entire group disbanded by tomorrow morning.

THOMAS HEAPHY TO HEAD POLICE BENEFIT GROUP

Patrolman Thomas P. Heaphy of the police trafic division was elected president of the Policemen's Benevolent association at the annual meeting yesterday in the Capitol building, 159 North State street. Heaphy was unopposed.

Other officers elected are John Holmes of Gresham station, vice president; George J. Biedermann of the Sheffield avenue station, financial secretary; Edward J. Carey of the accident prevention bureau, treasurer, and Emmett Shaughnessy of the Stockyards station, recording secretary.

Women's Institute to Be Held Friday by Child Study Group

Women will be the subject of a one day institute to be held by the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education at the Morrison hotel next Friday.

Mrs. Mary Shattuck Fisher, professor of child study at Vassar college, will discuss such questions as what happens when the mother combines home making with an outside job; when she uses her leisure in community service, and when she devotes herself entirely to her family.

The luncheon session will be addressed by men who are to give their impressions of women in the professional and domestic fields. A group of women, unmarried and married, will speak at the afternoon session.

Party in the Ozarks.

The whoopin' and hollerin' at our Twelfth Night party was a bit late getting under way. Roy and Margaret Johnson, two of our chief merrymakers, found two tires of their ancient jalopy would no longer hold air, having more patches than original rubber. It took them an hour to stuff the casings with dried leaves and grass before they could come chugging merrily up Sunrise mountain.

* *

One of our games was a stunt in which groups of three peeled, cored and ate a given number of apples in the shortest possible time. One tall, raw-boned young man was chosen to head a group. Spurning the entreating eyes of the girls present, he shrewdly announced: "I'll choose Maw and Paw!" It was a typical example of mountaineer family coöperation! Maw peeled. Paw cored. Son ate. Apples disappeared with lightning speed! This family group easily won the prize . . . a box of "boughten" cookies!

The belle of the party should have been pretty little Doris Roberts, whose handkerchief was liberally doused with Ozark mountain perfume . . . vanilla! But it proved to be Aunt Lizzie, my 68 year old neighbor who can neither read nor write. Warmed by hospitality and hot spiced cider, she executed a neat buck-and-wing dance on our living room linoleum. With true professional modesty she pooh-poohed our compliments, saying she could a-did better if she'd a-had on her shoes 'stead of her galoshes. Since they don't fit together, she always, she says, "jest wears one 'r t'other."

Parents Who Bicker Harm Young Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Children must be able to have faith in their parents—both their parents. But if those parents constantly differ before the children, or bicker, or actually quarrel; if mother says "No," and dad says "Yes—why shouldn't they? You're too strict," how can children have that secure feeling? They can't.

Wrangling—and that's an unpleasant word, but it designates an unpleasant thing—is most confusing to children.

The two grownups who mean most to them in the world stand before them, at swords' points—divided, disagreeable and issuing conflicting orders. Their home world should be solid, and when it isn't they suffer—sometimes in their emotions, sometimes in their behavior.

Aside from nerves and worry there are usually two reasons why parents criticize each other for their handling of their children. One, and the most common, is that they are at odds with each other in their hearts—that something has aroused an antagonism between them and it expresses itself in this quarreling over the children. By gaining favor with the children through indulgence, or openly belittling each other, they give vent to their acrimony.

The other reason, much less common, is a sincere difference of opinion unwisely shown before the children. The latter is much less harmful, and these parents can more easily break themselves of the habit. They can, perhaps, read together and thrash things out when the children aren't around.

The former, though—the parents emotionally involved—must try to straighten themselves out. They must do it for the good of their children. And if they can't quite accomplish that they can at least resolve to stop wrangling before their boys and girls.

Cheer Marian Anderson Recital; Full House Hears Grace Moore

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Auditorium theater heard both cheers and boos yesterday afternoon. The cheers were directed toward Marian Anderson, the great colored contralto, who was making her annual appearance in Northwestern university's music series. The boos—loud and ferocious boos, too—went to the attendants who came out around 5:30 to close the piano and to indicate that any one who had a home was free to return there.

Miss Anderson aroused terrific enthusiasm time after time by her uncanny ability to make her singing a phenomenally intensified speech. She actually lives the text of her songs, using music to clarify the emotion underlying the words and thereby to multiply by a thousand the force of whatever these words have to say.

The most exciting of the musical devices at Miss Anderson's command is voice color. Her tone can be dark as pitch one moment, of an almost pastel quality the next. For the second part of Schubert's "Death and the Maiden" she hauled out a ghostly, other worldly voice coloring which virtually never issues from a human throat. Speaking of colorings, that bright metallic glint of her upper register [in a forte] is not to the liking of this pair of ears, at least. It seems to be the result of strain rather than the outcome of a legitimate desire to externalize a quality of feeling.

The program began with antique Italian and German music, went from that to the lieder of Brahms and Schumann and to the big air from Saint-Saëns' "Sampson," and ended with songs in English from divers sources and a group of Negro spirituals.

The circumstances of the afternoon—a huge audience and much enthusiasm—were duplicated at the Civic Opera house in the evening when Grace Moore, widely liked American soprano and a veteran of numerous movies and radio hours, returned to the Chicago City Opera company for the second and last of her post-season engagements. In the title rôle of Massenet's "Manon" Miss Moore identified herself charmingly with the opera's dainty, lovable heroine.

Miss More dealt takingly with delicate French music of the opera. She took skilful advantage of the opportunties for characterization inherent in the score and succeeded in turning a wistful Manon.

Another feature of the evening was an aristocratic and finely inflected performance by Andre Burdino, the Des Grieux of the cast. Among the secondary characters especial note must be made of the dignified and sonorous Des Grieux, senior, of Nino Ruisi, and the magnificent enactment of Guillot de Morfontaine, the old roué, by Giuseppe Cavadore. It was enriched by countless bits of deft comedy. Leo Kopp conducted with a keen ear for balance as well as marked sympathy for the poetic idiom of the music.

PLAY DE LAMARTER WORKS

The first half of yesterday afternoon's Illinois Symphony orchestra concert in the Great Northern theater was given over to two works by Eric DeLamarter—a new overture entitled "They, Too, Went t' Town" and the Third symphony, originally conducted here by the composer.

It was especially appropriate that Izler Solomon should be responsible for this tribute, for the young conductor gained much of his early schooling in the conductors' class of the Civic orchestra, at that time directed by Dr. DeLamarter.

"They, Too, Went t' Town" is a witty manipulation of New England hymn tunes of 1800, so treated as to suggest that our serious minded Calvinist forbears had their way of "going to town" with jolly music, just as our jitterbugs have today. The Third Symphony, though overlong, is a lofty work, scored with magnificent command of the orchestra.

Edward Gradman, now a member of the Chicago Symphony orchestra and formerly concert master of the Illinois Symphony orchestra, played Glazounoff's violin concerto. His tone was appealing and his technique adequate. As yet he does not present rhythmic figures with quite enough incisiveness or expressive passages with quite enough personal persuasiveness.

Both conductor and orchestra were in brilliant form all afternoon. C. S.

BY CECIL SMITH.

A capacity audience of first nighters found the Harris theater a merry place last night. By an enormous stroke of luck Brock Pemberton, the producer, hit upon the exact psychological moment to release Clare Boothe's wild, lampooning comedy upon the search for a heroine for the movie version of "Gone with the Wind." Within two days every one had read of the selection of Vivian Leigh for the real Hollywood part. And, how they snorted last night when li'l Cindy Lou Bethany of the Georgia Bethanys predicted that the south would surely secede from the Union if an English actress were to be chosen!

The theater public of Chicago has been thirsting for a play of just this sort. "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" has a comic situation instead of an "important" theme. The audience can sit back and guffaw without knitting its brows or straining its ears to catch social implications.

A well rounded dramatic season cannot get along without some pure fun, something zany and light and frothy, something full of wisecracks instead of cultivated repartee or sober dialog. By its very unimportance in a season veering pretty far toward the thought provoking side of the ledger, "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" bids fair to become one of the smash hits of the year.

In the first act Miss Boothe does not swing into her stride with quite the dexterity she displayed in "The Women." In fact, if it were not for your first glimpse of Cindy Lou in the form of Lucia Lull, you might ask for your money back after the first fifteen minutes. In the second scene, however, the potshots begin to come thicker and faster, and to hit the center of the target more frequently. From this moment forward there is little time to draw in your breath after a laugh before another one is upon you.

Mr. Pemberton hunted for many weeks before he discovered Lucia Lull, down in Alabama, for the Cindy Lou of his second company. It is difficult to imagine how Helen Claire, of the much praised New York performance, could be better. With a southern accent that is perfection to my coarse middle western ears, and with all the decorative assets the part requires, Miss Lull is that rara avis the show business calls a "natural." Whether she sings "Mah Lindy Lou" off pitch to her guitar [accent the first syllable, please], or flies into a "snit," butting her head like a goat's into Loring Smith's astonished middle, or merely discourses upon her ancestry in such detail that Coburn Goodwin adjudges her "fine for breeding purposes," this neat little actress seems the outward realization of all the author's ripest imaginings.

There is none of the "road company" atmosphere about the rest of the cast, either. Vivian Vance is excellent as an outworn cinema glamor artist endeavoring to win the coveted movie rôle for herself by saying, "Take my mouth, it is yours," to every man that she can fasten onto. The rest of her characters Miss Boothe has been content to leave as fairly conventional types, on whom she can hang her swift, smarting quips. Since the players shoot all their quips effectively out into the audience, they are without exception as good as they need to be. Mr. Goodwin, possessed of a special gift of mimicry, brings the audience close to the point of panic with a few remarks couched in President Roosevelt's "fireside" manner.

Now and again Miss Boothe's humor stings pretty fiercely, and occasionally it slips into frank, unvarnished dirt. The general tenor, however, is more genial than that of "The Women," and will doubtless prove more endearing.

Resort Clothes and New Suits Stir Enthusiasm of Shoppers

BY RHEA SEEGER.

There is no sign of midseason doldrums; new clothes collections are arriving daily. Whether staying north or heading south for a vacation, the outfits you'll wear are new, cleverly detailed, and brilliant with color. The collections for vacationists are plentiful and irresistible.

Lots of new loot has been unpacked for the stay-at-homes. For tantalizing proof, see the new dinner clothes made with fitted basque cut tops and gathered long skirts. A new streamline, sophisticated yet unexpectedly naive.

Other new things include simple little suits with flared skirts and fitted jackets that come in grand contrast colors for dark coats. Smart daytime dresses in pastel colors are made with a definitly young silhouette. Bodice lines are swathed to the figure, sleeves are short and tricky and the designers have used all manner of tucks and drapings touched off with decorative belts.

Also new are the stunning knitted costumes in luscious colors; there are an unusual beige and a flattering gray, a most effective shade of chartreuse green, a willow ware china blue, raspberry rose, and the dusty pink shades.

These knits are especially good finds because they have become famous for their faultless fitting; their ability to keep that fit without dreary sagging at the back or sides, and their resistance to stretch. They are styled with the classic swank of an expertly designed daytime dress of handsome crêpe fabric. Necklines, sleeves, details, and general figure lines are soft yet simple, the sort of a dress that could go any place with ease and distinction.

Scarfed small hats of the same fascinating knit and color complete a costume for the most exacting individual. See the new gold tone arrivals and realize how effective this shade is under brown, dull green, navy, or black winter coats of either fur or fabric!

Square Dancers Get Call for Second Season

BY JUDITH CASS.

GOOD news to country dance enthusiasts is the announcement of the first meeting of the second season of square dancing, to be held tomorrow night. Further meetings will be held on alternate Tuesdays, all at 8:30 o'clock at the Germania club in North Clark street.

The dances were held in the gymnasium of the Girls' Latin school last year, but the location was changed so that refreshments might be available during the evening. A super caller has been engaged; and so have a fiddler and a pianist, providing the three most necessary elements for the dancing. Proficiency in the steps is easily acquired, as the nucleus of this year's small group found out last year when it learned the old time dances.

Winnetka Bachelors Join Invitation List.

"You are expected unless you notify me or S. Boal," conclude the invitations to the meetings, which are signed by the president of the group, Miss Frances Bell, who is better known to her intimates as Bootie. S. Boal, who is Stewart Boal, his wife, and Henry Meers are on the committee that has made the arrangements for the meetings. Added to the invitation list this year are three young Winnetka bachelors, one of whom, Hobart Young, is an accomplished caller as well as square dancer, having learned the art of singing out the figures during his many trips west. The other two are Jack Leslie and Cheves Walling, who have a working knowledge of most of the figures.

Bob Jones, who put more vigor into the dances than any of last season's neophytes, will be dancing again this winter, and so will Miss Margaret Wilder, Jay Hambleton, Gilbert Osgood, and Miss Barbara Hobart. The Roland K. Smiths, who probably will join again, will miss one or two of the sessions, for they are leaving on Feb. 4 for a two weeks' holiday in Sun Valley.

The dancing dues are $1 a person, as usual.

Barn Dance Jan. 27 to Start Another Series.

Invitations will go in the mail tonight to another series of dances. These are to be dinner-dances on Friday nights at the Vassar House restaurant, beginning Jan. 27 and continuing until May. "To keep these long months bright and gay" is one reason for giving the parties, according to the rhymed invitations the large committee in charge is issuing.

The first dinner-dance is to be a barn dance, with slacks, overalls or sports clothes in order. An amateur night will be held on Feb. 10. The names of sixty-two young persons, including married couples, debutantes, sub and post-debs and their beaux, are on the committee.

Some of them including the Boals and Miss Frances Jeffery are among the leaders in the country dance group. Mr. and Mrs. Boal, who is the former Miss Susan Ballard, have cards out for cocktails after 5 o'clock on Thursday for his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Wyatt Moore Jr. [Henrietta Boal].

Film of Ireland Catches Beauty of Blasket Isles

"MEN OF IRELAND."
Presented by Irish National Firm Corp.
Featuring an Irish cast.
Presented at the Sonotone theater.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

As different as a violet from a fire breathing bull is this week's Sonotone feature from the theater's usual run of propaganda.

It's a simple idyll of simple folk, backgrounded by the wild and lovely scenery of the Blasket Isles, off the west coast of Ireland. . . . Dialog and songs are largely in the Gaelic brogue and there's an indescribable atmosphere of eerie wistfulness about the whole production.

As for the story—a young Dublin medical student, who's been burning the candle at both ends, reads a book about the little fishing community on the Blasket Isles and, his imagination captured, takes a vacation there.

He saves the crushed hand of a young islander and the two youths become fast friends. . . . The budding M. D. and his friend's fiancée fall in love—but plan to sacrifice themselves for the trusting fisherman. . . . He discovers what's in their minds and ——. See picture for outcome.

Cliffbound shores and turbulent seas have been magnificently photographed. The customs of the islanders are interestingly depicted. The unpretentious acting is appealing.

I should think that "Men of Ireland" would make men and women from Ireland very homesick indeed.

Five Haydn Symphonies Found; to Be Played in N.Y.

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, announced at a concert tonight that five 150 year old symphonies by Josef Hayden, Austrian composer, have been discovered and will be introduced to the public here Feb. 26. "They were never played before except by Haydn himself in the Esterhazy castle," said the mayor. The music was found, city officials said, in a London museum.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 15.—"Gone with the Wind," which goes to the cameras on the 23d, has to gross $5,000,000 to BREAK EVEN! Without distribution costs, it figures to hit an expenditure total of $3,300,000. . . . The Janet Gaynor-Adrian marriage plans confirm his original statement in this space. . . . United Press should give Fred Othman a bonus on beating the gun on the Vivien Leigh announcement [he caught 176 coast correspondents flat footed]. Selznick has assurance from London that a divorce suit won't upset the picture. . . . Charlie Butterworth with Lois Earl. Mrs. Charlie Butterworth, who is petitioning for divorce, with Tommy Phipps. . . . Eleanor Hansen will become Mrs. Bill Faye [his latest gift is a pocket watch, made in envelope form]. . . . This is the third director on the W. C. Fields-Edgar Bergen picture. . . . The Hedy Lamarr-Spencer Tracy flicker is in its fourteenth week, and stalled again. . . . Marlene Dietrich is anxious to play the part of the ship hairdresser in "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," and money is no object! She figures the part would be a natural opposite Edward G. Robinson [and she'd be grand in it]. . . . The coast understands that the Clifford Odets [Luise Rainer] expect Sir Stork.

Girl who let out that shriek at the "Jesse James" preview was Joan Crawford, sitting directly behind this reporter. As Tyrone laid down his gats, just before he gets plugged, she screamed: "No, no, no-o-o-o!" The big sissy. . . . Lionel Atwill gives a standout performance in "Son of Frankenstein." This will clean up at the boxoffice, but Universal shut the door on another in the series when Basil Rathbone shot Bela Lugosi to death and then catapulted Karloff into a sulphur bed. Rathbone, who's been killed more times than any guy in flickers, finally is evening up the score! . . . Robert Taylor's eastern vacation was canceled because the doctors refuse to give M.-G.-M. any definite okay on William Powell. Taylor will be teamed with Myrna Loy, who was ready to start work on the "Thin Man" series. . . . Letitia Fairbanks and Bob Taplinger arm-in-arming it. . . . Ditto Loretta Young and John McClain.

Neville Fleeson, who split with Grace Hayes, will open his own night club. . . . Bert Lahr, who is asking for a divorce from his wife, now in a sanitarium, has spent more than $100,000 in trying to cure her. He wouldn't ask for a divorce but for the fact that he's very much in love with Mildred Schroeder. . . . The Wayne Morrises off for a Havana honeymoon. . . . The Jack Bennys getting wires on their twelfth anniversary. . . . Peter Lorre is scheduled for the next Ritz Brothers' flicker, "The Gorilla." . . . Josephine Hutchison or Katherine Alexander will get the rôle of Scarlett's mother. . . . Add Camera Magic: John Payne's power dive in "Wings of the Navy." . . . The John Huston baby died . . . Mary Brian and Big Boy Williams something new in twosomes. . . . Sam Goldwyn's "trouble shooter," Jimmy Roosevelt, found it at Santa Anita Saturday. He didn't have a winner.

If Elaine Barrie hasn't a fat part in that Broadway show, John Barrymore will kick up a big rumpus. . . . As a result of the federal investigation of the movies, there will be more movie stars at the President's ball than you can shake a guild at. Every studio is shipping its A stars to Washington, D. C. . . . Now it's Norman Krasna and Doris Carson. . . . The Frank Orsattis leave for Miami this week. . . . Honey Chile Wilder, who came back from N. Y. loaded down with gifts from Tommy Manville, prefers a South American. . . . Yacht Club Boys are in the market for a warbler to replace Jimmy Kern. . . . Hal Roach's daughter, Margaret, and Robert Paige, an item. . . . Reginald Gardiner is using Tommy Gibbons' old formula of squeezing a small rubber ball in his hand continuously, to overcome the effects of his broken arm. He is squiring Adrienne Ames. . . . The John Carradines will try it again.

Warner's is trying to get George M. Cohan for "Three Cheers for the Irish." . . . Shuberts and George White feuding over San Francisco fair priority rights. . . . Sorry to hear about the Jackie Hellers, because they're nice kids. . . . Lillian Roth and Abe Roth still going places. He's the coast's leading fight referee. . . . The Fay Wray-Billy Bakewell line was ridic. She's in town, her hubby's in Virginia. . . . Reason that Shirley Temple's next won't be called "Suzanna of the Mounties" is that the Royal Canadian mounted nixed the title. . . . A Stranger in the Dark

By Frank R. Adams

(Copyright: 1939: By Frank R. Adams.)

SYNOPSIS.

The hero, pursued by Detective Mike Clancy, is stopped in a Chicago railway depot by a young man, apparently dying, who gives him his wallet and baggage check to get him his medicine. He gets the sick man's bags, then, seeing the man being carried away on a stretcher, he uses the man's ticket and is on his way to Clovis, N. M., as John Bowman—an innocent fugitive, having taken the blame for missing bank funds to save his father. Before reaching Clovis he confesses his identity to Sheriff Tom Johnson, who boards the train to welcome John Bowman, whose father, Pete Bowman, is dying and longs to see the son separated from him by divorce since babyhood. The sheriff persuades him to take on the rôle. John's sister, Mary, and her fiancé, Charles Ferdinand, manager of her father's ranch, meet him in Amarillo and fly him to the ranch in Charles' plane. Mrs. Lode, wife of Pete's physician and guest, is with them. Our hero falls instantly in love with Mary and dislikes Charles, a handsome show-off, who is the pet of Pete's sister, Matilda, who had loved Charles' father.

INSTALMENT VII.

AUNT MATILDA.

It was a strange, huge room to which Mary brought me. The furniture was a mixture of the things that John Bowman had probably actually used when he was a little boy, and the additions which had been made from time to time against the possibility of his using it again.

For instance there was a child's crib in one corner and a large double bed of quarter-sawed oak near the opposite wall. There was a high chair, too, of a long ago period, but also three or four comfortable rockers, one of them cane-seated, and a large lether davenport. The bureau and dresser matched the bed and were very definitly man size. They don't make furniture that heavy nowadays.

In short, everything was of the sort which was really used in America, both east and west of the Mississippi, just after the turn of the century, not the make-believe stage-props which decorated the outer office.

On the wall was a note of comedy—a small boy's air rifle of ancient pattern resting on two wooden pegs and a brace of cap pistols dangling from two nails just below with their tiny barrels crossed—in imitation, no doubt, of something the child had seen elsewhere. I found out later where.

Mary was watching me anxiously. "Do you remember it at all?"

"Not really," I replied, "but I like it."

"So do father and I. The entire house was like this once. Mother thought it was old fashioned. She wanted things more like she was used to at home—French period stuff, I imagine. That was one of the things they quarreled about. As you may know, father has always been just a mite stobborn. No one who wasn't born a Bowman could ever be entirely right about anything."

"That accounts, I suppose, for the double wire fence I've heard about."

She smiled. "Partly. He didn't want even the Bowman cattle to get mixed up with just common mavericks. What was mother like, John? Father has never told me and Aunt Matilda, who has, is, I fear, slightly prejudiced."

That was a question which it was difficult to answer. I knew no more about her mother than she did herself. "She was very beautiful." That was probably a safe statement if she had been anything like Mary. "Perhaps the things that she wanted were what any woman wants."

Mary nodded her head sagely. "I think Aunt Matilda may have been partly to blame for some of their quarrels. She sees faults through a microscope, unless they are Bowman faults." She laughed. "I'm not all Bowman myself, so I know.

"I'll meet Aunt Matilda, I suppose," I suggested tentatively.

"Yes—yes, of course. She's with father right now. She takes care of him entirely in the daytime and sleeps in an adjoining room at night when a professional nurse is on duty. Aunt Matilda is governed by a stern sense of service and self-sacrifice. She thinks that I should take the night watch and replace the nurse, which I would gladly do but Charles won't hear of it. Fortunately she thinks that everything he says or does is entirely perfect, just as if he were a Bowman, so that makes it all right."

I knew there was something else Mary wanted to ask me.

Finally she blurted out the question. "What do you think of Charles?"

"He's very handsome," I told her.

"That isn't answering my question. Nobody gives a hang whether a man is handsome or not."

"I hope you're right." I was thinking of my own durable but non-decorative set of features.

"Of course I'm right. What I mean about Charles is—do you like him?"

I hedged. "It's a little early to make up my mind."

"Why? You liked me right away, didn't you?

"That's different."

"Implying that you had to like me because we're related?"

"No. I didn't have to. I couldn't help it. You're the most lovable woman I've ever seen." I said it impatiently as one might to a sister, but it did me good somehow to tell her. "Charles seems very pleasant and capable. Is it necessary that we should be more than ordinarily good friends?"

"In a way—yes. That's because the welfare of the ranch requires it. It seems silly to talk this way, but this place is like a little principality. Father would want to preserve its integrity at all costs. Before you came home I was sure I was doing the right thing. You see we'd heard strange rumors about you, that you were an invalid—or worse—even that you were a dope addict——" She broke off, "You're not, are you?"

"No. This bright look in my eye comes from looking at you—not from drugs."

"So you see I thought I'd have to be the man of the family—to take father's place. Now——" she paused, troubled.

I laughed. "I understand."

"I don't think you do."

"Then let's wait until I've seen Mr. —— until I see father."

She was glad to let the matter rest temporarily.

I was no happier myself to learn thus indirectly that she was marrying Charles chiefly so that there might be a strong man at the head of the House of Bowman, because that was what she implied.

Her brother, if I could judge from that brief glimpse I had had of him in Chicago, was almost exactly the kind of a man she had described. I was flattered, of course, that her opinion of me was higher, but it was based on the false premise that I would be there always. Actually I was only "passin' through," although no one knew that save myself and Deputy Sherif Tom Johnson.

To change the subject I said, "I like my quarters fine. Where do you bunk?"

Mary walked to a door in the wall which was at a right angle to the office partition. "This is my room," she said as she turned the knob, "but I promise not to come in without knocking."

I caught a glimpse of the sleeping chamber beyond. It was smaller than the one which had been John Bowman's and very austere and tidy, more like an army officer's quarters than the room of a dainty young woman. On the farther wall where I could not help but see it was one of those depressing oil paintings, this one of an impossible white horse posed on the edge of a cliff.

"Who," I said, indicating the canvas, "painted that and all the other God-awful monstrosities I saw out in the main hall?"

"I did." The voice came from behind me.

I turned, startled. I hadn't heard the door open, but it was open, and framed in it was an elderly woman of tremendous billowy bulk. She looked as if she had been built up of inflated inner tubes piled horizontally on top of one another.

The layers of fat under her eyes closed them to mere slits and, as her eyebrows were heavy, she had the appearance of peering out through twin machine-gun embrasures. I had the feeling that tracer bullets might begin zipping in my direction almost any minute. Her hair was the kind of gray that red hair becomes when it turns and it was parted in the middle with a huge knot on the back of her head in which a Spanish comb was stuck at a slight angle.

Her dress was long, with tight sleeves to the wrists, and with cloth-covered buttons from underneath her chin somewhere to the hem of the skirt which barely escaped the floor. The color was rust. Over her arm was a mantilla—but not a gay one.

"Aunt Matilda," began Mary, "this is——"

"Yes, I can see it is John," the woman interrupted.

When I've mentioned lime pie to friends I've seen several of them look surprised and express an opinion that lime pie couldn't be very good. But no one who ever has eaten pie flavored with lime juice could fail to recognize its delectability. And why shouldn't lime pie be as good as lemon?

One may use any recipe for a lemon juice dessert and stir in lime juice in place of lemon with good results. The flavor is almost but not quite the same. Lime pie is to lemon pie as limeade is to lemonade. Add green coloring or not, as you prefer. My own preference is for uncolored lime cream pie, which is a luscious gold by itself, but I do not object to delicately tinted lime chiffon pie, or to pale green lime snow pudding or frozen custard.

Lime Pie or Lime Cream Pie.

[9 Inch Pie.]

2 cups hot water or milk
⅓ cup cornstarch or ½ cup flour
1 cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
3 eggs, separated
⅓ cup lime juice
½ teaspoon grated lime rind
2 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons sugar for meringue
Baked pastry shell

Pour hot water or milk over mixed cornstarch or flour and sugar and salt, stirring constantly to prevent lumping. Cook in the top of a double boiler for 20 minutes, stirring to keep smooth. Beat eggs, add a little of the hot mixture, and blend thoroughly. Then pour eggs into the rest of the filling and continue cooking and stirring for 3 minutes longer. Remove from heat and add lime juice, rind, and butter. Beat until blended. Cool. Fill baked pie shell and top pie with a meringue made by beating the egg whites until stiff and folding in the sugar, a small amount at a time. Brown in a moderate oven, 350 degrees.

Lime Chiffon Pie.

[9 Inch Pie.]

1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup cold water
½ cup sugar
½ cup lime juice
½ teaspoon salt
4 beaten egg yolks
1 teaspoon grated lime rind
4 egg whites, beaten until stiff
½ cup sugar
1 cup cream, whipped
Baked pie shell

Soak gelatin for 5 minutes in cold water. Combine sugar, lime juice, salt, and egg yolks, and cook in the top of a double boiler until custard-like in consistency. Stir in dissolved gelatin, lime rind, and cool. Fold second half cup of sugar gradually into beaten egg whites, beating constantly. When the custard begins to thicken beat it with a wire whisk until fluffy and fold in the egg white meringue, then the whipped cream. Fill pastry shell and chill until firm.

Lime Snow Pudding.

[Serves Six.]

¼ cup cold water
1 tablespoon plain, unflavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
¾ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup lime juice
2 egg whites
Few drops vegetable coloring [optional]

Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes and dissolve in hot water. Add sugar and salt. Stir until sugar and gelatin are dissolved. Add lime juice. Cool until mixture begins to congeal, then beat with a rotary beater until frothy. Beat egg whites stiff, add to gelatin mixture, and beat until mixture is stiff enough to hold shape. Chill in a single mold or in individual molds. The coloring, if it is used, may be added with the lime juice. Serve pudding with sliced or crushed fresh fruit, sweetened, or with a soft custard.

Frozen Lime Custard.

[1 Quart.]

1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup hot water
2 eggs, beaten
1 tablespoon butter
2 teaspoons grated lime rind
1 cup cream, whipped

Mix sugar, flour, and salt in the top of a double boiler. Add hot water slowly and stir to keep smooth. Cook and stir until thickened and clear. Pour slowly over beaten eggs and butter, beating continuously. Return mixture to double boiler and cook about three minutes longer, stirring constantly. Cool, chill, and add lime juice and rind. Fold in whipped cream. Freeze in refrigerator tray, stirring once during the freezing process.

Looking at Hollywood

plans? . . . Now Rudy Vallee is busting the Los Angeles Paramount theater record. You've got to hand it to Vallee; he is boxoffice dynamite.

Earl Carroll, whose night club idea was ridiculed by Hollywood, has the last laugh. He's been jamming them in ever since he opened at a $2.50 minimum. . . . In answer to the fans' pleas for old time silent stars, Zanuck will engage fifty of them for the next Roy Del Ruth picture. Hooray. . . . The Dan Toppings due in any minute. . . . Ruby Schinasi en route for N. Y. . . . The Aldo Erminis here for another week. . . . The J. Walter Rubens [Virginia Bruce] getting rid of their polo ponies. . . . Jack Warner Jr. off to the east to learn the business end of the movies. . . . Ken Murray due in Wednesday. . . . Amazed that Paul Muni is selling his home overlooking the Pacific at Palos Verdes because I never met a fellow who was so proud of a place.

Past Presidents of Legion Women to Have Luncheon

The past presidents' parley of the Cook county council American Legion auxiliary will meet for its semi-annual luncheon at 1 o'clock tomorrow at Mandel Brothers' tea room. Mrs. Ralph C. Webber, past president of the council and parley chairman, will preside.

The Housewife

Is the living room furniture beginning to look a little the worse for winter wear? And does the room seem a trifle drab? If so, invest in a new slipcover for your couch and at least one chair and then stand back and observe the miracle. Your whole living room will take on new life and beauty. That is, if you select one of the charming materials we came across the other day.

These were printed linens of unusually lovely color and design. There were large, sprawly floral patterns in off whites and beige on dull coral, on deep blue or an artistic "faded" blue, on olive green or a golden yellow. And there was a gay nasturtium design running riot over a light green ground and a pinky-beige one—very Japanesey in effect.

There were other fabrics, too, from which to choose. You paid the same price for any and this included having slipcovers for couch and a one cushion lounge chair made to order.

Dache Creates Hairnets for Latest Hats

A new type of headgear decoration is the latest thing to glorify you. They call them hairnets, but they have no apparent relation to the unobtrusive little wisps of netting with which we have long been familiar. Some of this new netting for the hair is more like veiling. Some takes on the characteristics of the old time snood. But the nets are fascinating, as I saw them in a recent showing at the Ritz-Carlton when their originator, the milliner, Lilly Dache, introduced them to an approving public.

The slogan is: "For each hat a hairnet." The idea is to be beautifully hatted and also beautifully prepared for head exposure when the hat is removed. There was shown, for example, a taffy colored lether hat. The complementary hairnet was dotted with taffy colored wooden buttons. A turquoise blue, much beveiled chapeau was shown. Its hairnet, covering and protecting either up-swept or down-swept hair, was dotted with dime size discs of turquoise blue. A large picture hat affair had the hair covered with a net into which were worked several artful little bow-ties of black satin, placed at the sides, with perhaps a bit larger bow set in at the nape of the neck, just above the curls.

The possibilities for evening decor in this new mode are simply entrancing. There was shown a divine white evening gown, with three tiered skirt in black lace. On the model's gorgeous coiffure rested an elaborately simple hairnet concoction of black lace with camellias.

Some of the evening hairnets were simply bedecked with tiny rosebuds scattered here and there over the head, or with glittering butterflies. One—most snoodlike in effect—was a solid mass of hundreds of small white hyacinth blossoms.

But you get the idea? Take a color cue from the chapeau and work it into the hairnet, so that when the hat is removed you are still a decorative and well hair-groomed person.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

From the notebook:

We never thought we could even bear the sight of black enamel on nails, much less approve of it. But we saw a woman wearing it last week and liked the effect very much. She had snow white hair [obviously prematurely so], was dressed well in black with accents of white. She had most unusual hands—rather soft and very feminine, with small but long nails, and skin white as snow.

The black polish, in that instance, was interesting and effective and when once she brought her soft, faintly plump but long fingered hand up to her white hair the picture was a good one. Women with white, soft skinned hands, white hair and sufficient chic to carry it off might try this just for fun.

Consulting with a fashion expert, we learn that the chartreuse group will probably be the royal family of color next spring and summer. She says the new tones are easy to wear and that you can do wonderful things with contrasting color.

We're wondering just what makeups the beauty people will evolve. Our scout says that the currently fashionable purplish tones might be most interesting with it.

Have you tried a snood yet? They're going to be ultra-smart and you can get quite picturesque effects with them. So picturesque, in fact, that they're almost a temptation to longer hair. You'll be seeing lots of them later; if you like to be first with the latest you'll want yours now. They're made of almost everything, from store string to fine gold and silver wire. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Smartness for the Home

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOUSE FROCK.

What you wear at home is just as important as your choice of attire for social occasions outside the home. Her discrimination in house frocks has just as much influence on a woman's reputation for chic as has her loveliest evening gown. Home dresses must, of course, unite utilitarian features with smartness. They must be comfortable as well as smart. We think the dresses offered in the pattern today are perfect in every respect.

Both misses and matrons will like this style, with its simple shoulders, buttoned or not, as you please, and flared sleeves cut in one with the dress. Paneling achieves slenderizing lines for the front, and two pockets may grace the skirt. A belt may extend from the side seams or encircle the waist completely. The neckline may be V or square. There is a variety of trimming you can use. Rickrack is one method, and ruffling is another. Embroidery on the pockets is an extra finish, and a lovely pattern for it is No. E-741, available for 10 cents extra.

All types of washable materials will make up well. These include silks, cottons, linens, and mixtures.

Style No. 3031 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20, and 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material, with ¼ yard of 35 inch contrasting for the square-necked version.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Square Dancers Get Call for Second Season

Charles H. Nelson of Evanston, formerly of Kenilworth, will take place at 9 o'clock tonight in Christ church, Winnetka, the Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard officiating. A reception will follow at the Indian Hill club.

Anne Tilden, 14 years old, will be maid of honor for her cousin. Mrs. Robert E. English will be her sister's matron of honor. Another cousin, Philippa Garcia, 10, who makes her home with the bride's parents, will be the flower girl. The bridesmaids will be Mrs. Winn Canfield, cousin of the bride; Miss Mary Louise Arnold and Miss Mary Warner. William Nelson will be his brother's best man and ushering will be Baylies Tilden, Robert and Edward Hill, Robert W. Clyne, Wells Simmons, Allason Clark, and Thomas Wigglesworth of Shaker Heights, O.

Joers-Childs Wedding in New York Feb. 3.

The date for the marriage of Miss Jean Joers, daughter of Mrs. William H. Joers of New York, to F. Newell Childs, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Frederick Childs of Lake Forest, has been set for Friday, Feb. 3. The ceremony will take place in the chantry of St. Thomas church, New York.

Miss Anne Joers will be her sister's maid of honor. Miss Nancy Miller of New York, Miss Virginia Schoeph of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Miss Ruth Dierks of Kansas City will be bridesmaids.

Theodore S. Proxmire Jr. will be Mr. Childs' best man. The only Chicago usher will be Aldis J. Browne Jr. After the wedding there will be a reception in the ballroom of the Colony club.

Another former Chicagoan who now lives in New York is Mrs. Winston Lewis May Jr., who arrived recently to spend a month or two with her parents, the Harve G. Badgerows, in Winnetka. Mrs. May brought her infant daughter Linda with her.

Mrs. Parker Bryant, the former Betty Dixon, is having a long visit with her parents, the Homer L. Dixons. Mr. Bryant, who was here with his wife for the Christmas holidays, has gone back to their Florida home.

Symphony Board Gives Spring Style Show Today.

One of the first fashion showings of spring clothes, with special attention to spring brides, is being given at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Walnut room at Field's. It is sponsored by the board of the Woman's Symphony orchestra. Mrs. William H. Stanley and Mrs. Charles W. Wrigley are co-chairmen of the benefit, to which the attractive name, Spring Notes, has been given.

Mrs. George Woodruff, Mrs. H. Comer Winter, Mrs. Wrigley, Mrs. George B. Everitt, Mrs. George M. Burditt, and Mrs. Ernest J. Kruetgen have arranged luncheon and dinner tables which will be on display at the benefit. Miss Eleanor Litsinger is in charge of a group of young women who will show guests to their tables. Among those who have reserved tables for the fashion show and tea are Mrs. A. Watson Armour, Mrs. Edmund J. Doering, Mrs. Augustus K. Eddy, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. George B. Dryden, Mrs. Donald S. Boynton, Mrs. Kersey C. Reed, and Mrs. Philip T. Starck.

Virovai and Symphony in Milwaukee Tonight.

Robert Virovai, violinist, who appeared before a capacity audience at the Arts club last night, will appear with the Chicago Symphony orchestra in the Pabst theater, Milwaukee, tonight. Dr. Frederick Stock, conductor of the orchestra, and Mrs. Stock, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Cable will accompany the orchestra to Milwaukee.

The speaker at the winter meeting of the Chicago Junior league at 11 o'clock this morning in the Tower room at the Drake will be Prof. Jerome Kerwin of the department of political science at the University of Chicago. His talk on "Our Local Political Circus" will be the first of a series of talks planned by the public affairs committee of the league. Luncheon will be served in the French room after Prof. Kerwin's lecture.

Mrs. Arthur W. Cutten and Mrs. Edwin Hadley will be hostesses at luncheon to the senior board of the Chicago Home for Convalescent Women and Children after a meeting this morning at the Woman's Athletic club. Plans for the annual Easter offering and for the home's new library will be discussed.

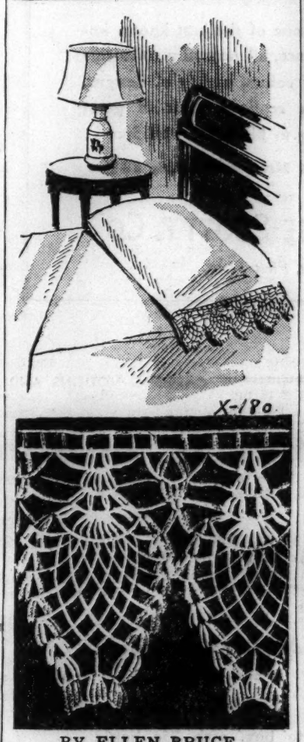
Historical Museum Sets Attendance Record in '38

Chicagoans took a greater interest in their local history last year than ever before in the eighty-two year history of the Chicago Historical society, it was disclosed yesterday. The attendance at the museum and library in the society's rooms at North avenue and Clark street was 55,000 more than during any other year.

Pineapple Design Creates Dainty Crochet Edging



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Again the pineapple crochet pattern scores as an edging for fancy pillow slips. This design is easily made with the finest white mercerized thread and extremely fine crochet hook. The edging may be attached to ready-made pillow slips, or one may buy material by the yard and make them.

For instructions for crocheting the pineapple edging for pillow slips, No. X-180, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

I must admit that contestants in the recent bridge examination "double-crossed" me on many occasions. On certain questions I had expected a large proportion of wrong answers; on others, a correspondingly high proportion of correct answers. Tabulation of the final results revealed that the easy questions [according to my conception] proved tough, while the hard ones seemed to roll right off the examinees' collective backs. Take question 39, for example:

DUMMY [NORTH].
♥ 9 3
♦ A J 10 9 5

YOU [WEST]
♠ Q 10 9 8 5
♥ Q 6
♦ K 8 2
♣ K 10 7

You originally led the spade ten. Your partner played the seven, and declarer won with the jack. Now declarer leads the diamond seven. What card do you [West] play, and why?

Fourteen thousand nine hundred and eighty-four of the papers that reached me gave the correct answer, to play the diamond king.

The purpose and probable effect of going up with the diamond king, second hand, were fully explained the same day the question and answer appeared, hence I will not go into this standard defensive coup any further. However, since opportunities for this play arise with surprising frequency, I commend readers to study the situation, whereupon they will see for themselves that any play by West, other than the diamond king, has little, if any, point to it.

TODAY'S HAND.

West, dealer.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 spade	Double
Pass	2 clubs	Pass	2 hearts
Pass	3 hearts	Pass	4 hearts
Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the queen of spades, the highest of his partner's bid suit. Dummy played the three and East the seven spot. The very second declarer saw the seven descending from East's hand, he realized the stage was set for a false-card. He played the six and confidently awaited the spade continuation from West.

Let us now look at the situation from West's point of view. His partner had played the spade seven and the deuce was not accounted for. To give West his due, he seriously considered a diamond or trump shift. The diamond shift might be disastrous if South held the A J x of that suit. The diamond ace would provide the ideal parking place for the low spade in dummy. A trump shift might be equally bad because declarer then could take the spade finesse himself, draw trump, and ditch one of dummy's losing diamonds. Sad to relate, West decided the spade seven still looked pretty high, and made the expected lead of the spade five, thus conceding declarer the contract.

West's decision was not very good. The seven should be considered a come-on card only when some of the higher cards are in view. Sitting West, I would shift to a diamond and if we lost a spade trick, due to the shift, I would let my partner know, in no uncertain terms, that he could very well have afforded a nine or ten spot to assure a continuation of the suit.

Points after touchdowns—Stydahar, Cuff.

Substitutions—All Stars: McChesney for Schwartz, Carter for Tinsley, S. Smith for Cardwell, Goddard for Isbell, Gore for Pinckert, Drake for S. Smith, E. Smith for Stydahar, Daugherty for Wlatrak, Radovich for Mehringer, Letlow for Gentry, Bjork for Kinnard, Hanson for Letlow, Moore for McChesney.

New York—Leemans for Soar, Johnson for Hein, Barnum for Cuff, Karcis for Danowski, Richards for Leemans, Schaffer for Falaschi, Gildea for Barnum, Burnett for Schaffer, Galatka for Poole, Mellus for Perry, Galazin for Tuttle, Cope for Widseth, Cole for Lundy, White for Galazin.

Referee—Cochrane [Chicago]. Umpire—Bowen [Los Angeles]. Field judge—Young [Los Angeles]. Head linesman—Ritter [Detroit].

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The New York Giants, champions of the National Football league, defeated a team of professional all-stars, 13 to 10, before 15,000 today by the margin of Ward Cuff's field goal kicked from the 18 yard line in the fourth quarter. The Giants scored ten points in the fourth quarter to win after trailing 10 to 3 at the end of the third period.

The victory enabled the Giants, who meet the College All-Americans in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S annual game in Chicago next summer, to keep their all-star record intact. They have never been beaten in all-star competition, whipping eastern college all-star teams four times before tackling the best in the pro ranks.

Giants Start Rolling.

The All-Stars provided the major thrill of the game in the third quarter when Sammy Baugh of Washington passed to Lloyd Cardwell of Detroit. Cardwell made a sensational catch behind the Giant secondary and raced to a touchdown. The play gained seventy yards. When Joe Stydahar of the Chicago Bears, kicked the extra point the All-Stars were in front, 10 to 3, and that seven point lead appeared pretty big.

But that score merely inspired the Giants and they passed and drove their way from the ensuing kickoff to a tying touchdown. With Kink Richards carrying the ball and Danowski throwing passes, the Giants went seventy-three yards down the field to score. After passing to Richards for a first down on the All-Stars 22, Danowski passed to Chuck Gelatka, who speared the ball on the 5 yard line and raced over the goal line. Cuff kicked the extra point that tied up the game.

Drake Is Star.

The All-Stars put on a rally that failed when Ernie Smith of the Los Angeles Bulldogs, missed a place kick from the 25 yard line. Then Ed Goddard of Cleveland, fumbled a punt and Indian Johnson recovered for the Giants on the All-Star's 19. Three plays made eight yards, after which Cuff kicked the deciding field goal.

Outstanding ball carrier of the game was John Drake, former Purdue full back who now plays for the Cleveland Rams. Drake tore the Giant line to shreds in a fourth period march and received a tremendous ovation as he left the field.

Leonard [Feets] Barnum of the Giants and Ernie Smith produced field goals in the second quarter and left the score tied at 3 to 3 at the end of the first half. The Giants had the edge in the first quarter, but were unable to score because of intercepted passes, fumbles, and penalties. They took the lead midway in the second period after Cecil Isbell of Green Bay tried a pass from deep in All-Star territory and Bull Karcis intercepted it for the Giants on the 35.

Tit for Tat.

The All-Stars dug in there and repulsed three Giant assaults, but on fourth down Barnum dropped back to the 18 and, with Tuffy Leemans holding the ball, produced his field goal. Led by Ed Goddard, the All-Stars then drove to the 19. After three plays Goddard held the ball and Ernie Smith tied the score in the last 20 seconds of play.

WILDCATS MUST FACE UNBEATEN GOPHERS TONIGHT

Illinois Meets Real Test Against Ohio State.

Games Tonight

Wisconsin at Michigan.
Minnesota at Northwestern.
Purdue at Indiana.
Chicago at Iowa.
Western Reserve at Notre Dame.
Xavier at De Paul.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Minnesota's undefeated basketball team probably should not be thinking of a Western conference championship at this stage of the race, particularly since Ohio State also is undefeated in Big Ten competition. The Gophers, who shared the 1937 title with Illinois and who face Northwestern this evening in Patten gymnasium, however, unequestionably are one of the topnotch quintets of the conference.

The Buckeyes, who registered their second Big Ten victory Saturday night over Northwestern, 38 to 33, move on to Illinois this evening. Ohio State narrowly averted defeat by the Wildcats, who led, 25 to 18, early in the second half, and long distance shooting by Capt. Jimmy Hull largely was responsible for the victorious spurt in the waning minutes of the game.

Ohio State Loses Schick.

Ohio State failed to score for ten minutes, and did not get a field goal for fifteen minutes. Then Bill Sattler replaced John Schick at center and his height and under the backboard play complemented the longer shooting of Hull, Dick Boughner, and Bob Lynch. Sattler, however, scarcely can play forty minutes. Consequently, Ohio State will be handicapped tonight, as Schick may be out of the lineup. Schick suffered an elbow injury in the Northwestern game. The arm was badly bruised and only an X-ray examination will reveal whether or not the bone was chipped.

Illinois whipped Chicago convincingly Saturday, 43 to 33, for its second victory in three games. Indiana defeated the Illini by a point one week ago. Illinois will go to Wisconsin Saturday and then to Minnesota for one of the more important conference games this season. Illinois' scoring strength centers around Pick Dehner and Bill Hapac, who accounted for 29 points against Chicago.

Iowa Scores an Upset.

The feature of Saturday's schedule was Iowa's upset of Purdue, defending champion, 49 to 41, an early first half scoring splurge which sent the Hawkeyes ahead, 22 to 9, establishing the margin which Iowa protected. Iowa's total is an all-time high for Hawkeye teams and tops the conference so far this season.

Harrison Ties Metz' 274 in Oakland Open

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Dick Metz sized up an eight foot putt on the eighteenth green today while a gallery of thousands watched the climax shot of the 72 hole $5,000 Oakland open tournament. Then the Chicagoan tapped the ball with a confidence born of knocking in longer and tougher ones. The pellet curled to the side, six inches from the cup.

Rolling with the ball was first prize money—$1,200. The missed putt cost Metz victory. It put him in a tie at 274 with E. J. [Dutch] Harrison of Oak Park, Ill.

Play Today for Title.

Harrison, 28 years old, long and rangy, came home today with a one under par 69, for the Sequoyah course, after previous rounds of 72—69 and yesterday's great 64 which tied the competitive record of the layout. Metz's card were 69—70—65—70.

Tied for third place were Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., and Mark Fry of Oakland, with 275s. Marvin [Bud] Ward of Olympia, Wash., headed the amateurs with a 277, good for fifth place.

Demaret Cards 279.

Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., and Ben Coltrin, San Francisco, tied at 278 while Jim Demaret, Houston, Tex., who won the recent Los Angeles open, followed with 279. Byron Nelson, Reading, Pa., was next with 280. Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Willie Goggin of San Francisco tied at 281. Harry Cooper of Chicago, winner of last year's Oakland open, was well back with 286.

LEO FREISINGER WINS MEN'S TITLE IN LAKES SKATING

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Leo Freisinger of Chicago today won the senior men's championship in the seventh annual Ten Thousand Lakes speed skating meet on Powderhorn lake. He scored 95 points in the two day meet. Vic Ronchetti, Chicago, was second with 70.

Minneapolis Powderhorn won the club championship, scoring 520 points. Winnipeg was second with 400; Chicago third, 225, and Beaver Dam fourth, 120.

Rev. J. F. Farley, a Former Star at Notre Dame, Dies

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The Rev. John F. Farley, C. S. C., died this morning in the Community infirmary on the Notre Dame campus.

Father Farley was one of Notre Dame's greatest athletes and one of it most beloved campus figures. He captained the 1900 football team and won four letters in football despite his weight of only 160 pounds, four in baseball, and one in track. He was an end in football and an outfielder in baseball.

He entered the seminary following his graduation and he was ordained a priest in July, 1907. With the exception of a few years spent at the University of Portland in Oregon, Father Farley was a rector at the university from 1907 to 1937 when he suffered a paralytic stroke.

Father Farley's leg was amputated on Feb. 10, 1938, at Mayo's. Hardening of the arteries forced the operation.

Despite his crippled condition he kept up his interest in the students, attending athletic events and other campus programs in an automobile and wheel chair.

Father Farley was fêted in 1932 on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of his ordination. Residents of the hall gave him a testimonial dinner at which Paul Host, 1932 football captain, was toastmaster.

Father Farley will be buried in the Community cemetery Tuesday morning.

Andersen Ski Victor at Cary; Leaps 181 Feet

Reider Andersen, Norway's newest skiing hero, added the Norge Ski club's championship to his collection yesterday. Fifteen thousand gathered on the snow covered banks of the Fox river and watched the star foreign rider make two graceful, thrilling leaps from the huge steel slide on the club's grounds near Cary.

Andersen, making his second appearance in the United States, soared 172 feet in his first attempt and returned later to jump 181 feet. The two leaps, however, were far from the slide record of 194 feet established by Alf Engen of Salt Lake City three years ago.

Sverre Fredheim, former St. Paul, Minn., elevator operator, took second place in the class A competition. Fredheim, who won the Norge championship four years ago, had jumps of 171 and 176 feet.

Wisconsin Student Third.

Paul Bietila, University of Wisconsin student, who two years ago set the unofficial mark of 201 feet in an exhibition jump on the Norge slide, was third, leaping 165 and 162 feet. George Kotlarek, Duluth, Minn., United States champion in 1936, was fourth with leaps of 160 and 175 feet.

A stiff wind and the soft snow on the slide and hill were blamed by the skiiers for their failure to approach the record jumps. Nine carloads of snow imported from Eagle River, Wis., combined with the fall over the week-end, was packed solidly and there were few spills in the four classes of competition.

Andersen Record Try Falls.

Andersen, who came to America for the first time in 1932 as a member of the Norwegian Olympic team, was dissatisfied with his two performances and after the meet ended made three more attempts to break the record. He failed again, jumping 174, 172, and 174 feet.

Bietila's two brothers, Walter, also a student at Wisconsin, and Leonard, who live in the family home in Ishpeming, Mich., turned in disappointing performances. Walter had jumps of 157 and 149 feet and Leonard soared 149 and 157 feet in his two attempts.

Smith Wins Shootoff in Glen View Event

Glen Smith, Don Blackburn, and Paul Clovis tied with scores of 98 in the weekly trap shoot at the Glen View Gun club yesterday. Smith won the shootoff with 98. H. M. Harper and Sidney Gorham tied in the protection shoot with scores of 95.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Hawks last night played the classy New York Rangers to a 1 to 1 tie to end a three game losing streak. But the overtime deadlock wasn't what gave a surprising crowd of 15,321 its money's worth plus. There was a dandy fight and assorted rioting and the folks seemed to love it.

Previously the Rangers and Blackhawks had played four shutouts, each side winning two. The last of these was last Thursday night in New York, where the Rangers whanged the Hawks, 6 to 0, so the splendid tie was a most acceptable decision from the Chicago end.

Both Sides Score.

Both the scores came within a two and one-half minute span in the second period. Bryan Hextall, assisted by Babe Pratt and Phil Watson, put the Rangers ahead in 4 minutes and 51 seconds.

The season's shutout precedent made things look tough for the Hawks, but in 7 minutes and 6 seconds of the same period Mush March tied the count with one of the most neatly executed tallies of the season. Bill Thoms got the puck in the Hawks' defense zone and gave it to Bob Gracie, who took it into neutral ice. He then fed it to March across the rink. March raced down the right boards and swooped past the points of Goalie Dave Kerr's skates, then dropped in the rubber on the old and ever pleasing mailman play. Gracie and Thoms each drew an assist.

The seeds from which sprouted the big fight were sown in the first period when Watson and Gracie engaged in a mild stick duel for which Gracie got locked up. Watson somehow escaped penalty at this juncture.

Then Came the War.

Thereafter the lads jousted from time to time but didn't get settled down to real combat until late in the second period. Gracie then parted Watson's bangs with his stick and the two players peeled their gloves and went to it. After a spell the combatants were calmed a bit and both were given penalties. Gracie went to the penalty box and sat down to start his five minute term. Wason remained at the scene of the battle with a gash in his head.

Capt. Art Coulter of the Rangers went to Watson's side and escorted him toward the bench. As Watson got abreast of the penalty box he pounced on Gracie. Gracie leaped from the box to the rink and the fight was resumed on the ice. Gracie socked Watson on the nose as the latter broke away from what had become a general mêlée in which even the goalies participated with their big paddles. Watson and Gracie then went at each other once more.

They Just Couldn't Score.

Referee Clarence Campbell added ten minute additional misconduct penalties to the majors previously assessed. Gracie went back to the penalty box, but Watson went to the infirmary for the remainder of the period. Five stitches were required to close the wound in his forehead.

After the brawl, the Hawks outskated, outplayed, and outroughed the New Yorkers, but couldn't quite get the puck past the able Goalie Kerr.

Ice Cream Cone Prep Proselyting Under Scrutiny

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Charges that San Francisco high school coaches have been inducing athletes to enroll in their schools by promising them ice cream cones and free street car rides will be investigated tomorrow by the Academic Athletic association, Chairman Arthur Fagin said today.

DETROIT DEFEATS TORONTO, 1-0, ON GOAL BY ROOKIE

Wares Is Injured; Out Two Weeks.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Goalie Cecil [Tiny] Thompson's sparkling performance enabled the Detroit Red Wings to shut out the Toronto Maple Leafs, 1 to 0, in a National Hocky league game before 12,117 tonight.

The winning goal was scored by Gus Giesebrecht, Detroit rookie, late in the second period while Rudolph [Bingo] Kampman of the Maple Leafs, was serving a penalty. Giesebrecht took a doulbe relay from Marty Barry and Carl Liscombe directly in front of the net and beat Goalie Walter [Turk] Broda with a smash into the corner.

Detroit's already heavy casualty list was increased further when Eddie Wares suffered a knee injury. Dr. C. L. Tomsu, team physician, said he probably would be out two weeks. Lineup:

MONTREAL, 1; AMERICANS, 1

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—A disputed New York American goal tonight robbed the Montreal Canadiens of victory in a National Hocky league game played before 11,000 in Madison Square Garden and for the second successive night the Canadiens tied, 1 to 1, with the Americans.

In Montreal last night victory was kept from the habitants when Referee Norman Lamport ruled Babe Siebert's penalty shot goal was illegal. Tonight the Canadiens claimed Lorne Carr's tying goal in the second period was scored following an offside and argued hotly with Lamport, who upheld Linesman Norm Shay's ruling. Lineup:

MOON MULLINS—GOING, GOING, GONE!

SCHMELING STILL FAILS TO REPLY TO PHONE CALLS

[Special cable to the New York News.]

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion of the world and the boxing pride of Germany, still could not be reached by telephone today. Continuing efforts begun by the New York Daily News yesterday, London newspapers placed telephone calls for the fighter, both to his Berlin home in suburban Dahlem and to his country estate in Pomerania, without success.

Although the propaganda ministry, headed by Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, denied yesterday a report that Schmeling and his wife, Film Actress Anny Ondra, were under protective arrest for offending Goebbels, no official Berlin agency would coöperate to the extent of enabling the fighter personally to make a denial.

Questioned by Secret Police.

Schmeling's difficulties reportedly began a week ago yesterday when he discussed Goebbels' love affairs at a party in a Berlin restaurant. Referring to the propaganda minister's attachment to Lida Baarova, Czecho-Slovakian film beauty and friend of Miss Ondra, Schmeling reportedly remarked that it was fortunate for Dr. Goebbels that he had never been attracted to Miss Ondra for, had he been, Schmeling "would have broken his neck."

A Rash Remark.

On Monday and Tuesday the fighter and his wife were questioned at the propaganda ministry by the secret police. On Wednesday they were permitted to go to their Pomerania estate, but on Thursday they reportedly were placed "under protective custody" in their Dahlem home.

OCONOMOWOC IS FIRST, ESCANABA 2D IN ICE MEET

Escanaba, Mich., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Oconomowoc, Wis., beat Escanaba by twenty points today to win the team trophy in the second annual Bay de Noc speed skating meet. The score was 530 to 510. Finishing in order behind Escanaba were Madison, Kenosha, and West Allis, Wis.; Detroit, Iron Mountain, and Petoskey, Mich.

SENIOR WOMEN—Doris Tetzlaff, Oconomowoc.

GALENTO'S BOUT AGAINST BRESCIA TOPS RING CARD

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Tony Galento, the Orange, N. J. tavern owner who has been touring the hinterlands of late, comes back to home grounds for his next fight assignment, meeting Jorge Brescia of Argentina, in the leading bout on this week's national boxing program.

Galento, who despite his three successive knockout victories since recovering from a severe attack of pneumonia, has failed to impress his followers, meets Brescia in a ten rounder in the Newark armory Thursday night.

Lou Ambers, former ruler of the 135 pounders, who is anxious to meet Henry Armstrong in a return match, clashes with Joey Silva of Los Angeles, over the ten round route in Philadelphia tomorrow night.

Novel Event to Test Skill of Casters in Tribune Meet

BY BOB BECKER.

Fishermen still have plenty of time to enter the casting events sponsored by THE TRIBUNE at the outdoor show opening next Saturday in the International amphitheatre. Entries for the contests may be made any time before actual competition starts around the indoor casting pool.

Twenty beautiful trophies will be awarded by THE TRIBUNE to winners of the various events. Casters who want to enter one or more of the contests for next week and would like to know the rules should write this department [a postcard will do] and a copy of the rules will be mailed. There are no entry fees for any of the events.

Introduce Obstacle Contest.

Casting contests open to any bass, muskie or other fresh water fisherman not affiliated with one of the Chicago casting clubs are the special events for fishermen and will be held Saturday night, Jan. 28.

The new obstacle casting contest is on the program for the afternoon of the same day. This promises to be the most amusing and exciting rod and line contest of the week. It is designed to give every bait caster a few natural obstacles such as he encounters on a northern lake when fishing for game fish. To provide this setting there will be logs and other objects in the pool. Contestants will be asked to place their casts close to these obstacles just as if they were tossing a lure at a concealed fish.

You Can Practice Saturday.

Every Chicago fisherman who wants to prove that he can cast accurately at snags, around brush and over logs will have a chance to try his skill. With next Saturday, opening day of the show, being set aside for casting exhibitions and practice, we urge all fishermen to come to the pool on that day.

Dog owners of the Chicago area are looking forward to the sanctioned puppy matches at the outdoor show by the Midwest Puppy Match association. They will be novel in that the judging will be spread over five nights, a different judge officiating each night. On Tuesday, Jan. 24, all nonsporting breeds will be judged by Livingston Osborne, Highland Park. Jimmie H. Sullivan, Chicago, will judge working breeds the following night. Terriers will be judged by Owen Craighead, Highland Park, on Thursday, Jan. 26. Toy breeds will be judged Friday, Jan. 27, by Mrs. J. C. Siebert, Chicago. Sporting dogs and sporting hounds will be judged the following evening by D. C. Hollenbeck, Chicago.

N.U. Must Face Mighty Gopher Team Tonight

the outstanding game of the five on the schedule. Indiana lost its opening game to Ohio State and has beaten Illinois and Wisconsin, running over the Badgers Saturday night, 43 to 19. Basketball being an unpredictable game, the fact that Wisconsin defeated Iowa, 28 to 24, doesn't mean that Indiana is 36 points better than Purdue, as the cycle of comparative scores would seem to indicate.

Chicago Takes a Trip.

Other conference games tonight are Chicago at Iowa and Wisconsin at Michigan. On the basis of Saturday's form Iowa and Michigan would appear to be the winners. The Wolverines, however, possess only average speed and their only victory so far, a 37 to 28 conquest of Northwestern, was based on a 10 to 1 lead acquired in the first ten minutes of that game.

Northwestern played its best game against Ohio State since defeating Notre Dame New Year's eve, but Minnesota will be at least an equally strong opponent. Four of the Gophers—Johnny Kundla, Paul Maki, Gordon Addington, and Gordon Spear—were members of the 1938 team which finished second in the Big Ten race. After losing three Big Ten games, Minnesota won nine straight. This season the Gophers whipped seven nonconference opponents, including New York university, 39 to 32, and now with three Big Ten conquests have run their string to nineteen consecutive victories.

Kundla Leads Team.

Kundla leads the team in scoring in conference games with 33 points. The other three veterans have scored 18 points each against Chicago, Iowa, and Michigan.

Northwestern's problem continues to be inability develop a consistent attack. Bob Koble's one hand shooting was supported in the first half of the Ohio State game by Ad Vance's four goals. But in the final period Northwestern netted only five field goals and the slower scoring tempo gave Ohio State time to pass the Wildcats. Northwestern's starting forwards, Les Harman and Bob Shepard, made only one field goal between them.

Xavier university of Cincinnati meets De Paul university tonight in the De Paul gymnasium, 2219 Sheffield avenue. Xavier has its last year's team intact and it is reputed to be a strong defensive quintet because of height. Al Howe, guard, is 6 feet 3 inches tall, and John Downey, substitute sophomore center, is 6 feet 4 inches. Al Geselbracht is the varsity center. De Paul's victory over Duquesne last week has encouraged Coach Tom Haggerty to believe his squad has reached its peak. The Blue Demons have averaged 45 points a game this campaign and have a chance to break the school scoring record established last season. Lineups:

DETROIT TO PLAY FIELD ARTILLERY TEAM SATURDAY

Metropolitan Polo league competition will take on an inter-city aspect Saturday night, when the Detroit Falcons ride against Fort Sheridan's senior team in the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

Saturday night's first game will pair the Rangers, led by Leon Mandel, with the Chicago Shamrocks, led by Capt. William S. Everett. Both teams are contenders in the four to six goal division.

The Rangers have two victories to their credit, each by a one-point margin. They downed the Ranchers, 10 to 9, and the 122d Field Artillery, 9 to 8. On the debit side is a defeat by Fort Sheridan's junior team, 8 to 3.

Winners over the 122d artillery, 13 to 6, the Shamrocks were outscored by Fort Sheridan in their second start, 12 to 7.

RIVER PARK'S TWO ARCHERY TEAMS WIN IN TOURNEY

Jim McMonies led the River Park team to a 2,325 to 2,299 victory over Columbus Park in the fourth indoor session of the Chicago Park District Archery association tournament yesterday. He scored 658 points. River Park's women's team also won, defeating Columbus Park, 1,728 to 1,030. Jean Archambault of the winners scored 556 points to lead the women contestants. Columbus Park protested River Park's victory, claiming an ineligible man was played.

William Holzrichter defeated Robert Anderson, 16-21, 21-10, 21-18, yesterday in the Washington park fieldhouse to win the men's ranked title in the Chicago metropolitan table tennis tournament.

SCHWABENS AND ACORNS WIN IN INDOOR SOCCER

BY OFFSIDE.

The Schwabens and the Oak Park Acorns proved themselves the best soccer players in a tournament that started at 10 a. m. and ended at 7:30 p. m. in the 132d Infantry armory yesterday. The thirty-two teams entered played under the seven-a-side system.

The Schwabens won the class A title by defeating the German-Americans, 4 to 2, and the Oak Park Acorns beat the Swedish-Americans, 1 to 0, in a game that required two extra periods. The Schwabens scored all their goals in the first period. Held making three and Absil one. Preiss made both of the German-American goals in the second period.

The Oak Park Acorns achieved their success when Bobby Temple kicked the ball into the goal from twenty-five yards out. In an exhibition game the referees defeated the officials, 2 to 1. Lineups:

MacQUINN WINS 40 LAP MIDGET AUTO FEATURE

Harry MacQuinn of Indianapolis won the forty lap main event midget auto race last night at the 124th Field Artillery armory. His time was 9 minutes 36.85 seconds.

Tony Willman of Milwaukee finished a quarter lap behind MacQuinn for second money. In third place was Cowboy O'Rourke of Los Angeles, who passed Pete Nielson, also of Los Angeles, on the twentieth lap. Nielson, lapped by MacQuinn, was fourth and Bert Knight of Chicago was fifth. Summaries:

VIEWS BUSINESS OUTLAY HINGING ON U. S. POLICIES

Ayres Says Profits Govern Expansion.

Increased business spending, with the resultant boost in the national income, depends entirely upon the attitude of the federal government toward business profits. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company, made this statement yesterday in his monthly review of business conditions.

Ayres devoted much of his review to comments upon President Roosevelt's assertion in his recent message on the "state of the union" that the United States ought to have an annual income of at least 80 billion dollars. It is the relative unattractiveness of taking business risks that prevents such an income, according to Ayres.

Fewer Companies Make Profit.

"Before 1929 about 60 per cent of all corporations doing business made profits," Ayres said. "Since 1930 that proportion has been cut in half. If the prospects for profits could be restored to about their old proportions we could produce a national income of 80 billions with easy promptness.

"If business men had a high degree of confidence in the future they would base their policies on long-term expectations. They would erect new factories and build additions, and then they would equip them with new machinery. They would produce the products that have been developed in the depression years. They would open new agencies, hire more workers and do more advertising.

Risks Depend on Profits.

"Business men would do these things if they thought they could afford to take present risks in the hope of making future gains, and if they believed they would be allowed to keep a reasonable part of the gains if they should succeed in making them.

"An 80 billion dollar national income depends on the expansion of business spending, which tends to be self-perpetuating, and not on increased federal emergency spending."

China Will Halt Advances for Customs Loan Service

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

CHUNGKING, China, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The Chinese government announced today it has decided not to make any further advance for the service of loans secured by the Chinese maritime customs. It will set aside sums proportionate to the revenue collected in areas still under Chinese control. The Japanese are holding the customs revenues collected in Japanese occupied areas.

France Seeks Foreign Loan of 95 Million

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 15.—The French treasury has just launched a 4 per cent loan of about $95,117,000 for foreign buyers. The loan, if successful, will be used for conversion of previous obligations issued by the French railway system.

In the view of French experts, the financial recovery of this country is better appreciated abroad than it is by the public here.

Franc Shows More Strength.

New strength of the franc reflects the economic recovery discussed by Finance Minister Paul Reynaud in his broadcast to the United States on Thursday night. The gold stock of the French equalization fund has quadrupled during the last ten weeks, which is the approximate period that Reynaud's recovery measures have been in effect.

This recovery of the franc has been under way at the same time that the British have had to modify their traditional principles of liberal economy to protect the pound sterling.

French Experts More Confident.

In contrast with the alarmist tone with which French experts viewed the condition of their own currency last year, many of them now are arguing that it is considerably undervalued in the exchange quotations in comparison with British and American currencies.

According to Gaston Jeze, writing in the Journal Des Finances, the dollar is overvalued as a result of the flow of gold to the United States during last year's war scares.

MONOPOLY QUIZ GROUP RESUMES HEARING TODAY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The monopoly investigating committee will resume its study of patents tomorrow by calling a number of industrialists and scientists to the witness stand.

The commerce department, in charge of this phase of the investigation, announced that thirteen witnesses have been asked to appear.

The committee has received testimony from the justice department on the use of patents in the automobile and glass container industries.

YOUNG BAKER STARTS IN FAMILY'S BANK AS MERE 'RUNNER'

New York, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—The Baker tradition is being carried on in New York City's First National bank, known for years as the "Baker bank," with the employment of George F. Baker Jr. as a bank runner. His hours and pay are the same as those of any other runner, although the Baker family is reputed to own or control 20 per cent of the bank's 100,000 shares, currently quoted at $1,610 a share.

George F. Baker Jr.

Young Baker is a grandson of George F. Baker, who died in 1931 after heading the bank for sixty-eight years.

Studebaker Sales Exceed Fourth Quarter of 1937

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The Studebaker corporation today announced that December sales showed a 5.8 per cent increase over December, 1937. Fourth quarter sales were 12 per cent over the preceding year. Based on November registration statistics, the increase elevated Studebaker to tenth position in the industry, Paul G. Hoffman, president, said.

STEEL RECOVERY FALTERS; RATE RISING SLOWLY

The recovery movement in the steel industry faltered last week. The national rate of ingot production rose only ½ point to 52 per cent, the trade magazine Steel reported yesterday.

"Improvement in steel inquiries is slow to be translated into orders," the weekly review said. "The initial post-holiday rebound in production has been arrested."

Steel said no promising railroad legislation has come from Washington, but added that nevertheless some orders were placed by carriers last week. The St. Louis-San Francisco railroad ordered 12,500 tons of rails, and the New York, New Haven and Hartford 9,000 tons.

The Union Pacific has been inquiring for 100,000 tons of rails and accessories and fifteen locomotives. The Southern Pacific has made inquiries for forty locomotives and 25,000 tons of rails. The Pennsylvania has ordered fifteen dining cars and twelve coaches. The Lehigh and New England has inquired for 100 hopper cars.

Fewer Stock Companies Formed in New York in '38

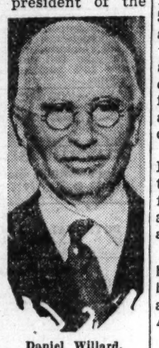
Albany, N. Y., Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Incorporation of stock companies declined during 1938 as compared with 1937, the division of corporations in the New York department of state announced today. There were 15,649 companies chartered in 1938, against 17,455 in 1937.

Continental Oil to Stress Its Newspaper Advertising

Ponca City, Okla., Jan. 15.—Newspaper advertising will again receive the major share of Continental Oil company's 1939 advertising budget, the largest in the company's history, A. J. Rabe, advertising manager of the company, said today.

Business Bits

Daniel Willard today will begin his thirtieth year as president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. In Baltimore, Md., yesterday he said he is convinced that, although the period of intense physical expansion of railroads is over, the future of railroading will be "even more interesting" than its past.



Daniel Willard.

Commenting that the carriers are in a difficult position, Willard said "making the best of what you have is always good medicine."

He has been railroading since he got a job with the Central Vermont line at the age of 18.

F. P. Sisson, Detroit, has been appointed chief engineer for the Grand Trunk Western railroad.

Roy L. Davis, assistant director of the Illinois insurance department, said yesterday that policy holders in the state paid more than 454 million dollars in insurance premiums last year. Of this, 70 per cent was on life policies.

Private utilities still buy 88 per cent of all turbine generators sold in America, W. E. Blowney, a General Electric company engineer, reported yesterday after a survey.

W. R. Bacon, president of the San Francisco [Cal.] Stock exchange, is en route east to confer Thursday with New York Stock exchange officials on common problems.

FEDERAL LOANS BLOCK UPTURN IN CORN PRICES

Farmers Willing to Sell Below 57c.

The government's loan program has created a ceiling which prevents any decisive rise in corn prices, according to cash grain brokers on the Chicago Board of Trade.

About half of the farmers in the commercial corn belt are sealing corn in cribs for loans of 57 cents a bushel. This leaves enough free grain to fill market requirements. Traders are puzzled as to what price it will take to start this free grain flowing to market.

A survey was made last week at numerous Illinois points in an effort to find out what price the farmers want for their 1938 crop. It indicated that they would sell freely if they could get 50 cents a bushel at country elevators.

Farmers Prefer to Sell.

Many farmers said they would rather sell in the open market for 50 cents than apply for a federal loan at 57 cents. It is estimated that interest and other charges on grain sealed for a year would be 2 or 3 cents a bushel. Also, some farmers feared that if they sealed grain for a loan they could not empty their cribs in time to house the 1939 crop.

Traders figure 50 cents a bushel for No. 2 yellow corn at an Illinois country elevator is equal to about 59 cents for corn delivered at Chicago with all charges paid. Last week corn sold as high as 54 cents in Chicago.

The failure of the corn market to hold advances recently is attributed by some brokers to the loan program and to the breaking of the drouth in Argentina.

Argentine Corn Supply Large.

Government operations continue to dominate the wheat market. Much of the support given to the Chicago market recently has come from removal of hedges against sales of cash grain made recently to the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation.

Wheat prices averaged slightly lower last week and held within a narrow range.

FSA GRANTS AID TO HALF MILLION FARM FAMILIES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The Farm Security administration reported today it extended financial assistance to more than half a million needy farm families in the last fiscal year.

Nearly 200,000 families received "rehabilitation" loans intended to help them get situated where they could make a living. Most of these loans were used for purchase of essential tools, live stock, and supplies, the agency said. These loans totaled $65,068,016.

The FSA reported it made outright relief grants totaling $24,071,457 to approximately 257,000 families in drouth, flood, and other emergency distress situations.

Loans to tenant farmers for purchase of farms numbered 1,887. The amount involved was $9,225,083.

Outside Buyers Stimulate Chicago Wholesale Trade

Wholesale business last week was stimulated by the presence of nearly 20,000 buyers in Chicago, the Chicago Association of Commerce stated yesterday. Furniture and home furnishing companies reported that 15 per cent more buyers are attending their exhibit this year and sales in dollars are 20 per cent higher than ayear ago. The exhibits will continue another week. A record attendance of more than 8,000 in the first week of the show at the American Furniture Mart was reported.

North Indiana Asks U. S. to Build Harbor

The Northern Indiana Industrial Development association is pushing a movement to get a new lake harbor for Indiana. The proposed harbor would be located where Burns ditch empties into Lake Michigan three miles east of the Gary corporation line. Industrial, labor, and civic organizations in Lake, Porter, and Laporte counties in Indiana are supporting the campaign. The Indiana legislature will be asked to take action at its present session.

The Burns ditch site is the only one along Indiana's lake shore that remains open for harbor development. It already has been surveyed and approved by the war department and tentative plans have been considered at three hearings. State officials, both United States senators and holdover legislators are supporting the project. New Republican legislators were told about the plan in Indianapolis last Thursday and indicated they favor it.

Would Use Federal Funds.

State Senator John W. Vanness of Valparaiso, said it is proposed that the harbor be built with federal money at a cost of about 3 million dollars. Some supporters believed the state might have to appropriate money to get the project started. This, they said, would be recovered from taxes which would be paid later by industry attracted to the area.

War department officials have asked the development association what cooperation could be expected from the state in the event the department decided to build the harbor. The association believed Public Works administration money could be obtained under the national defense program. A survey by the war department has shown Indiana harbors to be congested and inadequate.

Construction of the harbor would entail building breakwaters, dredging a channel 300 feet wide and 1,000 feet south from the lake shore in Burns ditch. The ditch now is 220 feet wide at the mouth and 110 feet wide where it joins the Calumet river.

Steel Firm Owns Land.

Land on both sides of Burns ditch where it meets the lake is owned by the Midwest Steel corporation, a subsidiary of the Weirton Steel company. The steel company has 760 acres on the east side of the ditch and 240 on the west side. The company bought the property ten years ago to provide for future expansion.

E. T. Weir, chairman of the board of the Weirton Steel company, said in Pittsburgh last night that any expansion by the company would be contingent upon the state getting the harbor. The expansion, he said, would not affect company operations in Weirton, W. Va., and Steubenville, O. "The Indiana development would be entirely new and an auxiliary project," he said.

Use of Cotton in December Slumps, But Is Above 1937

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The census bureau reported today cotton consumed in December totaled 565,307 bales of lint and 65,676 of linters, compared with 596,289 and 66,822 in November last year, and 432,328 and 46,309 in December, 1937.

Retail Sales in Germany Show an Increase in 1938

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Jan. 15.—[Special.]—Retail sales in Germany in 1938, business research institute said today, aggregated 34,000,000,000 marks, against 31,000,000,000 marks in 1937. [The mark is about 40 cents.]

U. S. CONTROLER REPORTS GAIN IN BRANCH BANKS

DelanoShunsTaking Stand on Issue.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Preston Delano's first report to congress as controler of the currency today showed new gains for branch banking in the United States.

Preston Delano.

Delano said the number of branches of national banks increased from 370 in 1937, when legislation facilitated the movement, to 1,570 on Oct. 31, 1938. There was an increase of twenty-four in the year ended last Oct. 31.

The new controler made no general recommendation about branch banking, which has been a controversial topic both among bankers and legislators for many years.

Silent on Holding Firms.

The report also showed a total of 5,247 national banks in the country, after a year in which seven former state banks joined the national system and one national bank failed.

The national banks' net profits before dividends in the year ended June 30, 1938, were $208,423,000. This compared with $286,561,000 in the preceding year. Dividends paid in the respective years were $143,740,000 and $153,475,000.

Gross operating earnings totaled $850,551,000 and operating expenses $585,882,000. In the preceding year gross operating earnings were $847,197,000 and operating expenses were $577,851,000.

Illinois Leads in Savings.

Illinois led all other states in postal savings in the last fiscal year, the controler reported. Postal savings depositors in Illinois had $173,885,738 to their credit at the end of the year. New York state was second, with $98,050,795.

The controler said 24,053 children in seventy-eight Illinois schools deposited $186,804 in 1937-'38, and had net savings of $23,040 for that period.

At the end of last June 2,272,958 depositors had $833,793,000 to their credit in state and national banks in Illinois.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Moisture in Corn.

January 15, 1939.

GOVERNMENT agents made heavy deductions on ten cribs of corn offered as collateral for federal loans by Clarence and Louis Thurow Jr. on one of the three farms they operate in Kendall county near Plano and Yorkville. The deductions ware made for excess moisture in the corn.

Reports from the Agricultural Adjustment administration's state laboratory at Champaign showed that the moisture content of the corn in all of the cribs exceeded the maximum amount of moisture permitted without deduction. All of the corn in two of the cribs was rejected because it contained too much moisture.

The moisture content of the samples of corn analyzed from ten different cribs ranged from 16.4 per cent to 23.6 per cent. Corn is accepted without deductions where the moisture content does not exceed 15.5 per cent. Where corn contains more than 15.5 per cent moisture a deduction of 2 per cent of the volume is made for each 1 per cent of moisture over that amount.

How Maximums Vary.

While no corn is accepted as collateral for a government loan where the moisture content is above 20.5 per cent, the maximum amount of moisture permitted varies with the width of the crib. There is a reduction of 1 per cent in the amount of moisture permitted for each additional foot in the width of a crib above seven feet. The corn in crib No. 278 tested 20.3 per cent moisture, but was rejected because the crib was eight feet wide. The maximum content permitted in an eight foot crib is 19.5 per cent.

The accompanying table shows the moisture content of the corn in the various cribs and the number of bushels deducted in each case because of excess moisture. Some deductions were necessary from each of the eight cribs accepted for loans, the amounts varying from 24 bushels in the smallest of these cribs to 142 bushels in the largest.

Total Amounts Loaned.

The table also shows the total number of bushels in each crib finally accepted for a loan and the amount loaned on each at the rate of 57 cents a bushel. The data follow:

Crib No.	Bushels	Per cent moist.	Bu. deducted for excess moist.	Bu. accepted for loan	Amt. of loan at 57c bu.
276	1,773	19.2	142	1,631	929.67
277	1,572	23.6	1,572	.....	.....
278	983	20.3	983	.....	.....
279	781	16.9	32	749	426.93
280	1,752	16.8	70	1,682	958.74
281	1,752	16.4	36	1,716	978.12
282	650	18.0	39	611	348.27
283	578	17.3	24	554	315.78
Tots.	12,790	.....	3,135	9,655	$5,503.35

The ten cribs contained 12,790 bushels of corn. Of this amount 2,555 were in the two cribs rejected. An additional 580 bushels were deducted for excess moisture in the other cribs, leaving only 9,655 bushels accepted as collateral for the loan of $5,503.35.

The corn in the rejected cribs may be retested after it has had time to dry out. If the moisture content then falls within the proper limits the corn will be accepted as collateral for a government loan. The present plan, however, is to feed the corn rather than make further attempts to get a loan on it.

Steps now are being taken to secure government loans on several thousand bushels of corn on the other two farms operated by the Thurows. The corn loan program is being conducted in Kendall county by the county AAA committee with headquarters at Yorkville.

NO REPORTS.

Investors' Guide: We have stock in a Chicago company that is incorporated in Illinois. The firm follows rather a strange practice, it seems to us. It pays dividends now and then, but never gives any reports of how much it has made or lost. Is it a law that a company must send stockholders a statement of its earnings every year? Several other corporations report to us quarterly. How can we find out about this one?—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. G.

Answer: The Illinois law does not require corporations to send reports to their stockholders. Companies are required to hold annual meetings which all shareholders may attend, but officers are not required to disclose specific information to stockholders at the meetings.

Stockholders in Illinois corporations do, however, have the right to examine their companies' books "at any reasonable time for any proper purpose," if they have held shares for six months, or own five per cent or more of the total stock.

If a company's stock is listed on a national securities exchange, it is registered with the Securities and Exchange commission, which requires annual reports. The reports are available for public inspection.

We suggest that, if your stock is not registered with the SEC, you write to the company's treasurer, requesting reports of operations for recent years. If he declines to send them, you have the right to look at the books or to have some one you name as your agent do so.

PERFECT CIRCLE.

Investors' Guide: A friend of mine said to me the other day: "Why don't you buy Perfect Circle stock? It has paid dividends for the last ten years." Is that true? I understand the company makes little besides piston rings for automobiles. How could it make money every year, when the automobile companies which must be its big customers have had big ups and downs in the last ten years?—M. B. R.

Answer: Perfect Circle company, piston ring maker of Hagerstown, Ind., has paid regular quarterly dividends of 50 cents a share on its common stock since Oct. 1, 1928. In addition, it paid extras of 25 cents a share in 1931, 75 cents in 1936 and $1.25 in 1937.

The company operated at a profit from 1928 through 1937. The dividends were earned in every year except 1932 and 1935.

The stability of the company's business is accounted for by the fact that about two-thirds of its sales are for replacement of old piston rings.
